

STUDIES IN HISTORY, CULTURE AND ARCHAEOLOGY

GENERAL EDITOR G.R. SHARMA

Volume 1 G. R. Sharma : Reh Inscription of Menander and the Indo-Greek Invasion of the Gangā Valley.

Volume 2 V. S. Pathak : History of Saiva Cults in Northern India From Inscriptions (700 A. D. to 1200 A. D.).

Volume 3 Manju Bharati : Somadeva Kṛita Lalita-Vigraharāja nāṭakam (also available in Hindi).

Volume 4 G. R. Sharma et al: From Hunting and Food Gathering to Domestication of Plants and Animals—Excavations at Chopani Mando, Mahadaha and Mahagara.

Releasing Shortly

Volume 5 T. V. Mahalingam : Lectures on History, Culture and Archaeology of Tamil Nadu.

Volume 6 A. D. Pant (Ed.) : Studies on Arthasastra.

Abinash Prakashan, Allahabad

This is a volume in
Studies in History, Culture and Archaeology

STUDIES IN HISTORY, CULTURE AND ARCHAEOLOGY

GENERAL EDITOR G.R. SHARMA

VOLUME 2

Editorial Board

J. D. Clark

S. Nurul Hasan

Ravinder Kumar

T. V. Mahalingam

G. C. Pande

V. S. Pathak

R. S. Sharma

B. K. Thapar

Managing Editor

G. K. Rai

SPONSORED BY

Department of Ancient History, Culture and Archaeology UNIVERSITY OF ALLAHABAD

V. S. PATHAK

HISTORY OF SAIVA CULTS IN NORTHERN INDIA

FROM INSCRIPTIONS (700 A.D. TO 1200 A.D.)

Editor of this Volume

G. C. Pande

Abinash Prakashan, Allahabad

COPYRIGHT @ 1980, V. S. PATHAK

ALL RIGHTS RESERVED. NO PART OF THIS PUBLICATION MAY BE REPRODUCED OR TRANSMITTED IN ANY FORM OR BY ANY MEANS, ELECTRONIC OR MECHANICAL, INCLUDING PHOTOCOPY, RECORDING, OR ANY INFORMATION STORAGE AND RETRIEVAL SYSTEM, WITHOUT PERMISSION IN WRITING FROM THE AUTHOR.

Published: July 1980

Price: Rs. 70.00 $ 11.00

Published by ABINASH PRAKASHAN Samanta Shibir', 110, South Malaka, Allahabad-211001, India

For

Department of Ancient History, Culture and Archaeology University of Allahabad-211002

Printed in India at Saraswati Offset Printers, Allahabad Bound at Agrawal Book Binders, Allahabad Cover by Impact, Allahabad

CONTENTS

General Editor's Frejace		1X
Introd	Introduction
	Introduction: Schools of Saivism	1-3
I	Pāśupata School	4-19
	History	4-8
	History: Sub-sects of Saivism	8-13
	Philosophy of the Lakulīśa Pāśupata
	School	13-17
	Pantheon	17-18
	Names of the Pāśupatas	19
II	Kāpālika School	19-23
III		23-25
IV	Siddha School	26
	Pantheon	26-27
V		27-28
VI		28
VII	The Śaiva Siddhānta School	28
	History	28-38
	Literary Activities of Ascetics	39-40
	Philosophy	40-43
	Yoga	43
	Kriyā	43-44
	Charyā	44-45
	Appendix-The Rājagurus of Kalacuri
	Kings	46-50
VIII	Miśra School-The Cult of the Pentad	51-57
IX	Conclusion	57
Gener	al Index
Additions and corrections		i–ix
		x

ABBREVIATIONS

Antiquities of Chamba State: AC. J. Vogel, Delhi. ASI., AR. Archaeological Survey of India, Annual Report. BI. Bhāvanagar Inscriptions. CIL Corpus Inscriptionum Indicarum. DHI Development of Hindu Iconography: J. N. Banerjea, Calcutta (2nd Edition). EHI. Elements of Hindu Iconography: T. A. G. Rao (in four parts), Madras. EI. Epigraphia Indica. HBD. History of Bengal, University of Dacca, 1943. History of Dharmaśāstras: Mm. P. V. Kane HD. (in 5 volumes), Bhandarkar Oriental Research Institute, Poona (1930-56). IA. Indian Antiquary. IHQ. Indian Historical Quarterly. Iśāna-śiva-guru-deva-paddhati (Part I-IV) Ed. ISG. by T. Ganapati Sastri, Trivendrum. Journal of Andhra Historical Research JAHRS. Society. JAOS. Journal of American Oriental Society. JASB. Journal of Asiatic Society of Bengal. JBBRAS. Journal of Bombay Branch of Asiatic Society. J Orissa H R. Journal of Orissa Historical Research Society. JUPHS. Journal of U. P. Historical Society. P&TOC. Proceedings and Transactions of Oriental Conference. MASI. Memoir of Archaeological Survey of India. SII. South Indian Inscriptions. Vaishnavism Vaishnavism, Saivism and Other Minor Religious Systems: R. G. Bhandarkar, Poona, etc. 1929.

General Editor's Preface

For over two decades, the Department of Ancient History, Culture and Archaeology of the University of Allahabad has been conducting seminal researches in the Archaeology of the Gangetic and Vindhyan Regions, and in the social and cultural history of ancient India. These researches have been characterised by an intellectual approach which combines rigour with sophistication in finely balanced proportions; and the themes taken up for exploration concern fundamental facets of Man and Society in our prehistoric and classical past.

Both the quality and the quantum of researches conducted under our auspices have encouraged us to launch a new series of publications, under the title "Studies in History, Culture and Archaeology." In this series, we propose, in the coming years, to issue a number of monographs written by members of our faculty. Through the medium of the "Studies" we seek to communicate to a wider scholarly audience the results of the work being conducted in our department, in the hope that this will stimulate discussion and research.

Under this new series, we shall also be publishing the work of scholars who do not belong to our Department, the only criterion for selection in the series being academic excellence. We hope to attract for publication manuscripts from senior as well as young scholars in universities and research institutions in India and abroad.

The second volume in the series entitled 'History of Saiva Cults in Northern India from Inscriptions (700 A.D. to 1200 A.D.)' by V. S. Pathak is being released.

G. R. Sharma

Introduction

The historical origins and early development of Saivism go back to at least the beginnings of civilisation in India. It is well known that Marshall discovered a representation of the 'Paśupati' in the remains of the Indus The earliest literary record in our history, civilisation. viz., the Rgvedasamhitā clearly attests the worship of Rudra. The full sublimity of Rudra is, however, unfolded in the Yajurveda and even today the chanting of the Satarudriya remains without a parallel for its moving power. Rudra-Siva is seen to be both Apollonian and Dionysian, the god 'who is shadowed in immortality and death.' In the Svetāśvataropaniṣad we find the first adumbrations of the philosophical aspect of savism. Its connections with Yoga and Bhakti also become manifest here. In the early post-Vedic age we learn from the Mahābhārata that the Pāśupata had emerged as a distinctive spiritual path by the side of the Pāñcarātra, Sāṅkhya and Yoga. The evidence of Megasthenes and Patañjali confirms this.

Dr. Pathak has suggested that Śrīkantha, the traditional founder of the Pāśupata sect might well have been historical. A second movement in the history of the sect was initiated by Lakulīśa and Dr. Pathak has convincingly argued that it would be a proper interpretation of the evidence if Lakulīśa is placed in the second century B. C. It has similarly been argued that Somaśarman and Guhāvāsī originated other powerful śaiva movements.

While the light which Dr. Pathak sheds on the early history and mutual relationship of the Saiva Cults is full of interest, his main concentration in the present monograph is on collecting epigraphic data relating to these cults from the early medieval period and assessing its historical significance. For any student of history it is thrilling indeed to learn of actual lines of Saiva teachers who guided the mighty Kalacuri and Cola rulers. Within its self-imposed limitation Dr. Pathak's monograph presents a brilliant treatment of an aspect of early medieval religious history and epigraphy.

Indeed the monograph tends to whet the reader's appetite and we can only hope that Dr. Pathak will perhaps one day find time and inclination to write about other aspects of this complex and fascinating history. It is a pity that few scholars have been drawn to it. If iconographic, sculptural and architectural data are combined with epigraphy, perhaps new details about the local variations of cults might be revealed. For example, a good beginning has been made in this respect about the cult of the Buddhist godess Tārā in eastern India.

The most important aspect, however, of Saiva history undoubtedly lies in the development of Saiva literature, doctrines and modes of worship. While Dr. Pathak has made some highly interesting and valuable observations on this aspect, he could not naturally be expected within the compass of the present work to go any further in this direction. Even within these restrictions Dr. Pathak has made an admirable and brilliant use of varied literary sources. His use of the Tantraloka is especially revealing. It is well known that the various streams of Saiva tradition vary not only in superficial externalities but also in their metaphysical points of view. Some Agamas are thus dualistic while others are non-dualistic. In this connection Dr. Pathak quotes an illuminating passage from Jayaratha which explains that the five faces of Siva correspond to cit, ānanda, iccha, jñāna and kriyā and that the five streams of Sāstra proceed from these while the Lord is in the state of being Sadāsiva. The dualistic, non-dualistic and mixed philosophies are thus variations which arise in these different streams, all equally proceeding from the Lord.

The problem of reconciling metaphysical diversity has been a common one in the history of Indian spiritual thought. The Buddhists had, thus, faced this problem within their numerous sects and schools. The Mahāvāna proposed as the solution of this difficulty the principle of 'Vineyabhedad desana-bhedah'. The Saddharma-pundarīka gives a graphic illustration of the Great Teacher's Upaya-Kausalya in this respect. In course of time the Vedanta with its numerous schools faced the same problem and Madhusudana Sarasvati formulated the doctrine of Prasthana bheda, taking his cue from a famous ancient Saiva Stotra. The greatest of the Saiva philosophers, Abhinavagupta, had already attempted to reconcile metaphysical diversity by relating it to the diversity of spiritual experience. In our own times the great savant M. M. Pt. Gopinatha Kaviraja has spoken of the 'synthetic gradation' of Indian philosophy.

The fact of the matter is that Saiva philosophy, like Buddhist or Vedāntic philosophy, is not a merely speculative analysis but rather an interpretation of experienced spiritual verities. Now, despite the formal reverence paid to the revealed word, in practice Indian spiritual seeking has tended to go by experience. A process of interpretation has thus been constantly necessary to reconcile the word and personal experience. This has led to the dialectical development of a rich spiritual tradition. The continued vitality of the tradition of sādhana in India makes the study of past philosophies and the śastras a particularly rewarding and interesting task. Perhaps to some such an analysis of ancient philosophical ideas in the context of spiritual experience will appear bound to remain theoretical or even speculative in the absence of detailed historical and biographical data. Consequently whatever scraps of historical information can be gleaned in the area must appear most welcome. This makes Prof. Pathak's present work of particular interest and value not merely to the epigraphist and historian but to the student of religion and philosophy. It is, therefore, a matter of great pleasure that this Essay of Dr. Pathak, has been published in the form of a monograph in the series of publication sponsored by the Department of Ancient History, Culture & Archaeology of the University of Allahabad.

G. C. Pande

योगेनात्मसमाधिना विगलिते दिग्देशकालक्रमे शैवं पाशुपतं कृतन्तु भवता सोमञ्च कापालिकम् तत्कालादिकलां क्रमे कलायता त्वद्वस्तु शस्तं मया नैवेद्याय समर्प्यते हरिहर! त्वत्पादपाथोजयो:।

SAIVISM IN EARLY MEDIAEVAL INDIA AS KNOWN FROM ARCHAEOLOGICAL SOURCES MAINLY INSCRIPTIONS

V. S. PATHAK

During Early Medieval Period Saivism was very popular in Northern India. Majority of Gahadavāla¹, Chedi², Chandella³ and Orissa kings⁴ were styled as Parama-māheśvara. Harjaravarmmā and Vaidyadeva of Assam, Vijayasena, Vallālasena of Bengal, Devapala, Paramāra and Bhartrivadha Chāhamāna of Western India also bore this religious epithet.

Several rulers dedicated their kingdoms either to Siva or to Saiva ascetics. Thus, Avantivarmman⁵ of the Mattamayura region and a Chedi

¹ Chandradeva (EI, XIV, 197-200), Madanapāla (IA, XIV, 101 ff), Govindachandra (JASB, XXXI, 123-24) and Harischandra (EI, X, pp. 97-98).

Lakshmi-Karnna (EI, II, pp. 305 ff), Yasah-Karna (EI, XII, 210 ff), Narasimhadeva (IA, XVIII, pp. 211-13), Jayasimha (IA, XVII, 224 ff), Vijayasimha (IA, XVII, 227-30).

3 Devavarmman (IA, XVI, 205 ff), Madanavarmā (IA, XVI, 202, 207-10), Parmarddi (EI, IV, pp. 135-70), Trailokya-varmmadeva

(EI, XVI, pp. 272-77).

- Mahābhavagupta Janmejaya (EI, XI. pp. 93-95), Mahāśivagupta Yayāti (JBORS, II, 45-59), Mahābhavagupta II (EI, III, pp. 355-59), Gayādatunga (JASB, 1909, V(N.S.) pp. 347-50, Raṇabhañja (EI, XII, pp. 321-25), Vidyabhañja (EI, IX, 271-77), Netrabhañja (EI, XVIII, 293-95), Kulastambha (EI, XII, pp. 156-59), Ranastambha (JBORS, II, pp. 396-400).
 - गत्वा॰ तपस्यन्तमुपेन्द्रपूर्वे पुरे तदा श्रीमदविन्तवम्मा ।
 भृशं समाराध्य तमात्मभूमि कथंचिदानीय चकार पूताम् ॥
 अथोपसद्याप्य च सम्यगैशीं दीक्षां स दक्षो गुरुदक्षिणार्थम् ।
 निवेद्य तस्मै निजराज्यसारं स्वजन्मसाफल्यमवाप भूयः ॥१३॥

king of Dāhala had presented their kingdoms to the pontiffs of Saiva-Siddhānta school.

The Prabandha-Chintāmani records a tradition that a Solanki chief had given whole of the Mālava province as a present to Mahākāleśvara of Ujjain and appointed the Paramāras to administer¹ it. An inscription from Achalagaḍha discloses the existence of Vijaya-rājya² of a Saiva ascetic. The Chedi records describe Vāmadeva who is perhaps identical with Vāmaśambhu, as Parama-Bhaṭṭāraka Mahārāājdhirāja-Parameśvara-Vāmadeva.

Some of the ascetics belonging to the Guhāvāsī line of Śaiva Siddhānta were very influential. They initiated in the faith the kings of Varmman dynasty in the Punjab and Chedi, Paramāra and Chanderi-Pratihāra dynasties of Central India. This line sent its branches to far off south in the Tamil and Andhra areas where these ascetics filled the role of rājagurus. Inscriptions preserve an unbroken line of Śaiva rājagurus of the Chedi kings running for more than two hundred and fifty years.

Sometimes, Purāṇas divide Śaivism in three categories—(i) Vedic, (ii) Tāntric and (iii) Mixed (Miśra).3 In the mixed (miśra) school of Śaivism, the main deity Śiva was worshipped along with other four gods. This school is, therefore, same as the Smārta cult of the panchadevopāsanā. Vedic Śaiva school appears to be same as Lākulīśa Pāśupata whereas Tāntric school was perhaps constituted by Kālānana, Kāpālika and other extreme sects. It may, however, be noted that even Lākulīśa Pāśupata is originally Āgamic but it is described in the Purāṇas as Vedic because it is comparatively more orthodox and in the beginning it recognised the Vedic institution of Varṇa. The Śaiva-Siddhānta school was Agamic.

Prabandha Chintamani, p. 11.

देवादेशाद्भुजद्वये लग्ने सित तं मालवदेशं सान्तः पुरं तस्मै देवाय दत्वा तद्रक्षाधिकृतान् परमारराजपुत्रान् नियोज्य स्वयमेव तापसीं दीक्षामंगीचके।

तांत्रिकं वैदिकं मिश्रं तिधा पाशुपतं शुभम् । तप्तिलगांकशूलादिधारणं तान्त्रिकं मतम् ॥ लिंगरुद्राक्षभस्मादिधारणं वैदिकं भवेत् । रवि शम्भुं तथा शक्ति विघ्नेशं च जनादेनम् ॥ यजन्ति समभावेन मिश्रं पाशुपतं हि तत् ॥

SCHOOLS OF SAIVISM

The Malkāpuram¹ Stone Ins. of the time of the Kākātīya king Rudradeva S. S. 1183 mentions four schools of Saivism-(a) Saiva, (b) Kālānana, (c) Šiva-Šāsana and (d) Pāśupata. Lists of these schools occur in the Vāmana² and Śiva-Purānas,³ the Āgama-Pramānya⁴ of Yāmunāchārya, the Śrī-bhāshya⁵ of Rāmanuja, the commentary⁶ of Vāchaspati Miśra on the Śārīraka-bhāshya, the Shaddarśana-Samuchchaya7 of Haribhadra Sūrī and other Agamic8 works.

A comparison of these lists would indicate that the four important schools with their sub-sects were prevalent in the country:-

- (a) Saiva or more precisely Saiva-Siddhanta school,
- (b) Kālānana also known as Kāruka,
- (c) Pāsupata with a branch of the Lākulīśa Pāśupata.
- (d) Kāpālika with its associate cult of the Soma.9
- उपेयषां शैवतपोधनानां कालाननानां शिवशासनानाम् । विद्यार्थिनां पाशुपतव्रतानामप्यन्नवस्त्रादिसमर्पणाय ।। Viśveśvara, the Saiva pontiff had sanctioned a land-grant for providing meals and clothes to the students and ascetics belonging IAHRS, IV. 147, ff. to these four sects.
- आद्यं शैवं परिख्यातमन्यत्पाश्पतं मुने । तृतीयं कालवदनं चतुर्थञ्च कपालिनम् ।।
- शैवाः सिद्धान्तमार्गस्था श्शैवाः पाश्पतास्तथा । कापालिकापरे ॥ Vāyaviya Samhita XXIX शैवाः महावृतधराश्शैवाः
- यथा माहेश्वरे तंत्रे विरुद्धं वहुजिल्पतम् । चतुर्विद्याहि तित्सद्धचर्यामार्गानुसारिणः ।। यथा कापालिकाः कालामुखाः पाशुपतास्तथा । शैवास्तत्रच कापालमतमेवं प्रचक्षते । Agamaprāmānya p.
- वेदिवरोधादसामंजस्याच्चनादरणीयतोच्यते । तन्मतान् पशपतिमतस्य सारिणश्चत्रविद्याः कापालाः कालामुखाः पाशुपताः शैवाश्चेति । On Brahmasūtra II. 2-35.
- माहेश्वराश्चत्वारः शैवाः पाशुपताः कारुणिक कारुक सिद्धान्तिनः कापालिकश्चेति ।
- ते च शैवादि भेदेन चतुर्था भवन्ति । तद्क्तम् आधारभस्मकौपीनजटायज्ञोपवीतिनः । स्वस्याचारादिभेदेन चतुर्घा स्यः तपस्विनः । शैवाः पाशुपताश्चैव महाव्रतघरास्तथा । तुर्या कालामुखा मुख्या भेदास्तेषां तपस्विनाम् ।
- ⁷ शैवं पाशुपतं सौमं लाकुलं च चतुर्विधम् । Suprabhedagama, Kriyapada. Īśana Śivaguru paddhati, pt. III, Kriyāpāda, Ch. I, p. 6, quotes Svāyambhu Tantra as follows: पुनः स्वेच्छावतारेषु तन्त्रं पाशुपतं तथा । वा (ला) कुलं सोमतन्त्रं च जगाद परमेश्वरः।
 - तं शैवं तु मुख्यं स्याद् यदादी शिवभाषितम् ।
- The Kāpālikas are associated with the Soma-cult in inscriptions as well as in literature. Vide, Prabodha-Chandrodaya, act III and see infra.

Some south Indian inscriptions mention the "six samayas or cults" which have been alternatively explained as (a) Bhairava, (b) Vāma, (c) Kālāmukha, (d) Mahāvrata, (e) Pāśupata and (f) Saiva. The last four are the same as above. The 'Vāma' and 'Bhairava' cults are not mentioned in inscriptions. They may be same as kāpālika. The Śańkara-Digvijaya of Ānandagiri mentions some other six sects.² Literature contains some more names.³

1. PĂŚUPATA SCHOOL

1. HISTORY

A. Śrīkantha the Founder:-

The Mahābhārata mentions Pāśupata as one of the five religious schools. It is stated to have been revealed by Śrīkantha, the consort of Umā and son4 of Brahmā. The tradition recurs in several works belonging

- 1 It may be noted that in the Vāyavīya Samhita quoted in fn.3 above mahāvratā-dhara occurs in place of Kālānana and distinct from the Kāpālika but vide Haridatta Sūri who takes it as a name of the Kāpālika sect. There seems to be some mistake in the Vāyavīya Samhitā. Dr. Bhandarkar seems to be indecisive. He sometimes identifies mahāvratā-dharas with Kālāmukhas and sometimes with Kāpālikas (p. 168).
- भुजद्वयिलगधराः शैवाः । फाले त्रिशूलधारिणः रौद्राः । भुजद्वये डमरुधारिणः उग्राः फाले लिंगचिह्नधारिणः भट्टाः । हृदि त्रिशूलं शिरिस पाषाणिलगञ्च धारिणो जंगमाः । ललाटे भुजद्वये हृन्नाभिषु लिंगधारिणः पाशुपता इत्युच्यन्ते ।
- (a) केचिल्लोकायतं ब्रह्मन् केचित् सोमं महामुने ।
 नाकुलं केचिदिच्छन्ति तथा केचित्तभैरवम ।।

Tantrādhikāri-nirnaya, p. 2.

The Lokāyata sect has been mentioned here as a Śaiva school although different from the Soma cult.

- (b) शैववैमलिसद्धान्ता आर्हताः कारुकाश्च ये।

 Tantrāloka, XIII, V. 8. Here Vaimala and ārhatā also seem to be subsects or schools of Saivism.
- सांख्यं योगं पांचरात्रं वेदाः पाशुपतन्तथा ।
 ज्ञानान्येतानि राजर्षे विद्धि नानामतानि वै ॥६४॥
 उमापितभूतपितः श्रीकण्ठो ब्रह्मणः सुतः ।
 उक्तवानिदमव्यग्रो ज्ञानं पाशुपतं शिवः ॥६७॥ Sāntiparva, 349.

to various schools of Saivism and composed in different parts of the country. It is recorded in the Tantrāloka, the Śivadrishţi, the Bṛihadyāmala the Pingalāmata and the Śiva Purāṇa. A commentary on the Śaradātilaka begins with a salutation to Śrīkantha, the first teacher of the doctrine. The Tantrālok kewise describes Śrīkantha as the unique teacher on the earth. Aghoraśiva, the Śaiva Siddhānta ascetic of the Chola country commenting upon the Ratnatraya mentions Śrīkantha as the Guru to be saluted in the beginning.

- (i) Works of Śrīkanṭha:—The Tantrāloka mentions the Māngalya-Śāstra in which Śrīkanṭha discussed the nature of Śakti and Śaktimān.⁹
 The same work quotes in another context some verses from a book by¹⁰
 - 1 Kashmir Shaivism, pp. 5-6, Tantrāloka, I, p. 27.
 - कलौ प्रवृत्ते यातेषु दुर्गमगोचरम् । कलापिग्रामप्रमुखिच्छन्ने शिवशासने ॥ कैलासाद्रौ भ्रमन्देवो मूर्त्या श्रीकण्ठरूपया । अनुग्राहायवतीर्णश्चोदयामास भूतले ॥
 - अशिकण्ठस्य प्रसादेन सर्व्वोऽयं परिणतो मम ।। Studies in the Tantras, p. 102.
 श्रीकण्ठे महान्त्रोक्तं भूत्वा सदाशिवपदात् । सरहस्यं महादेवि शृणुष्वेकाग्रमानसा ।
 Ibid, p. 103.

भ अस्य तन्त्रस्य का संज्ञा, पिंगलामत संज्ञा । क कर्त्ता भगवान् श्रीकण्ठनाथ कर्त्ता । Ibid, p. 106.

श्रीकण्ठेन शिवेनोक्ता शिवाये च शिवागमा: । शिवाश्चितानां कारुण्यात् श्रेयसामेककारणम् ॥ १, Vāyavīya, Siva, Ch. IX.

⁶ श्रीकण्ठं वसुमन्तं वसुगुप्तं सोमानन्दं तथोत्पलाचार्यम् । लक्ष्मणमिनवगुप्तं वन्दे श्रीक्षेमराजं च ।।

Quoted in Kashmir Shaivism, p. 25n.

ग जयित गुरुरेक एव श्रीश्रीकण्ठो भुवि प्रथितः ।
 तदपरमूर्त्तिभगवान् महेश्वरो भूतिराजश्च ॥ Tantrāloka, I, p. 28.

सकलसंहितानामवतारकत्वेन गुरुं भगवन्तं श्रीकण्ठनाथं सर्वविघ्नापहं च गणपति…
 अभिवन्दते । Ratnatgayam, p. 1.

⁹ शक्तयोस्य जगत्कृत्स्नं शक्तिमांस्तु महेश्वरः। इति मांगल्यशास्त्रे तु श्रीश्रीकण्ठो न्यरूपयत्।।४०।। Tantraloka, III, p. 347. Jayaratha quotes verses from this work in the commentary.

10 In the commentary Jayaratha says that इति श्री कण्ठनाथोक्ति:
"this is the statement of Śrī Śrīkanṭha"

Śri Śrikanṭhī as an authoritative Āgama has also been frequently quoted by Jayaratha:—

एतच्य श्रीश्रीकण्ठयाभिधानपूर्वकं विस्तरत उक्तम्।

Śrīkantha. The colophon of a manuscript of the Tantrāsāra1 deposited in the Nepal Darbar Library mentions Śrīkanthanātha, another form of Paśupati, the great Pāśupata teacher as the writer of the book.

(ii) Śrīkantha in the Śaiva Pantheon: - Like many other human teachers Lakulīśa, Goraksha, etc. Śrikantha is also recognised as a god in the Saiva pantheon. Thus he is mentioned as a deity in various positions in the Trik school. He is sometimes regarded as identical with Sadāśiva having five faces probably because he revealed the doctrine having five sources (pañchaśrotorūpa).2 He is guardian-protector of Siddhi as well.3 The form of Śrīkantha with five faces was accepted in the Lākulīśa school also. The Cintra Prasasti mentions a temple for Srīkantha pancha-mukha, i.e. Śrīkantha having five4 faces. In the Śaiva Siddhanta school he is described as one of the eight Vidyeśvaras. 5 The Vishnudharmottara Purāna also counts him amongst Vidyeśvaras.6 The7 Bihari Ins. describes Yuvarāja II who dedicated his whole empire to his Saiva Siddhānta preceptor as always engaged in the worship of Śrikantha.

श्रीपशुपतिभट्टारकस्य मृतिधरपरमपाशुपताचार्य-श्रीकण्ठगुरुणा स्वात्महेतोः ज्ञानपुस्तकमिति शभमस्त ।

Bagchi, thereupon, remarks that this pretentious Siī Śrīkantha "has probably nothing to do with the traditional āchārya of the Pāśupata sect bearing that name." But the description-"the incarnation (mūrtidhara) of Paśupati and 'the Great Pāśupata teacher' points towards Srikantha of the tradition.

- 2 See infra p. 8
- प्रतिलोकं नियक्तात्मा श्रीकण्ठो हठतो बहुः। सिद्धिदंदात्यसावेवं श्रीमद्भरवशासने ॥ Tantra. V, p. 30.
- श्रीकण्ठपंचमुखवासमधिष्ठितानि । येनािकयन्त कृतिनायतानि पंच ॥४०॥

EI, I, p. 284.

- The pūrva-Kāranāgam as quoted in Rao: EHI, II, II. App. 197. अनन्तेशस्तथा सुक्ष्मिश्शवोत्तमश्चैकनेत्रकः ।
 - एकरुद्रस्त्रिम्तिश्च श्रीकण्ठश्च शिखण्डिनः ॥
- 6 Ibid, p. 197.
- ⁷ चित्रं यच्च सरस्वतीकृतरितः श्रीकण्ठपूजापरः । V. 69

¹ A manuscript of the Jñānakārikā forms the suite with another text Tatvasāra the colophon of which reads.

B. Lakulīśa:-

The Sarva-darśana-sangraha mentions Nā (Lā) kulīśa—Pāśupata school. Lakulīśa the founder of this Pāśupata school is stated as an incarnation of Šiva in the Purānas, the Ātma-Samarpaṇa, the Kāravaṇa-Māhātmya, the Pañchārthika commentary, the Tantrāloka, tec. He is also mentioned in a number of inscriptions. According to the Purāṇas he was the last and twenty-eighth incarnation of Siva in a brāhmaṇa family at Kayāvarahaṇa (vulgo Kāravaṇa) in the Dabhoi Taluk of Baroda State. Rāśīkara states that he preached his first sermon at Ujjain.

The Pāśupata Sūtras, also known as the Pañchādhyayi, form the basis of this school. As this work is attributed to him, R. G. Bhandarkar regards Lakulīśa as the founder of the Pāsupata school. He observes, "the other general name Pāśupata arose by dropping the name of the human individual Lakulin and substituting that of the god Paśupati whose incarnation he was supposed to be, as is done in the text of the Mahābhārata quoted above." This means that the story of the promulgation of the Pāśupata doctrine by Śrīkantha is but a fiction

(i) Śrīkantha and Lakulīśa:—But the tradition of Śrīkantha as a teacher of the Śaiva religion occuring in the works of various schools of Śaivism from different parts of the country, the mention of his name in the list of teachers, his description "as unique teacher on earth" and lastly quotations from works attributed to him are very strong indications in favour of his historicity.

Bagchi has casually suggested that "Lakulīśa was probably his disciple and that these two were responsible for the foundation of the Pāśupata religion."

The Tantrāloka associates Lakulīśa and Śrīkantha. It states that Śrīkantha and Lakulīśa are the only two authorities on Śiva Śāsana.8 The etc. p.4.

¹ Vāyu, ch. XXIII., Linga, XXIV,

² Gaṇa Kārikā, G.O.S., App. I, p. 25.

⁸ Ibid, App. IV, p. 37.

मनुष्यरूपी भगवान् ब्राह्मणकायमास्थाय कायावतरणे अवतीणं इति । तथा पद्म्या-मुज्जियनीं प्राप्तः । अतो रुद्रप्रचोदितः कुशिकभगवानभ्यागत्य पृष्टवान् ।

⁵ Tantrāloka, XIII, p. 340.

⁶ Vaisnavism etc. Coll. Works of Bhandarkar, IV, 'p. 172.

⁷ HBD, p. 405.

एतद्विपर्ययाद्ग्राह्मनवश्यं शिवशासनम् ।
 द्वावाप्तौ तत्र च श्रीमच्छ्रीकण्ठलकुलेश्वरौ ।। Tantrāloka, XII, p. 396.

same work describes Lakulīśa with other Saiva incarnations as proclaimer of the glories of Śrīkanṭha.¹

But Lakulīśa does not seem to be an immediate disciple of Śrīkantha because the accounts of Śrīkantha and Lakulīśa available from literature and inscriptions do not represent them as teacher and disciple on the other hand a tradition in the Āgama quoted by Abhinavagupta records the receiving of the doctrine by Lākula from Swachchhanda.² Moreover, references to the Pāsupata school occur centuries earlier than Lakulīśa.

It seems that the Pāśupata school was founded by Śrīkantha from which later on several branches sprung forth. The branch started by Lakulīśa was called after him as Lākulīśa Pāśupata.

2. HISTORY: SCHOOLS OF SAIVISM

A. Śiva Śāsana School:

The Pāśupata school founded by Śrīkantha is also called in literature as Śiva Śāsana.³ It is mentioned in the Malkāpuram Ins. of Rudradeva⁴. It is described as five-fold and as having five sources (pañcha-srotorūpa).⁵ All other schools are described to have originated from it.

B. Lākulīsa Pāsupata School:

Origin of the School:—The school was founded by Lakulīśa who as we have already seen is described as an incarnation of Siva. Purāṇas and inscriptions mention Kuśika, Gārgya, Maitreya and Kaurusha as his disciples.

- 4 Ibid, p. 340.
- ² Ibid, p. 383.
- ⁸ Tantrāloka, I, p. 34, XII, p. 397.
- उपेयुषां शैवतपोधनानां कालाननानां शिवशासनानाम् ।
 विद्यार्थिनां पाशुपतव्रतानामप्यन्नवस्त्रादि समर्पणाय ॥

JAHRS, VI, p. 147 ff.

तच्च पंचिवधं प्रोक्तं शिक्तवैचित्र्यचित्रितम् ।
 पंचस्रोत इति प्रोक्तं श्रीमच्छीकण्ठशासनम् ॥१६॥

Tantrāloka, XII, p. 397.

The patichasrota is explained by Jayaratha in Tantrāloka, I, p. 34 as:—
तत्र हि परमेश्वर एव चिद् आनन्द-इच्छा-ज्ञान-क्रियात्मक वक्त्रपंचकासूत्रणेन सदाशिवेश्वरदशामधिशयानः तद्वक्त्रपंचकमेलनया पंचस्रोतोमयं अभेद-भेदाभेद-भेददशोदंकनेन तत्त-द्वेदप्रभेदवैचित्र्यात्मनिखलं शास्त्रमवतारयति

Date of Lakulīśa:—R. G. Bhandarkar places the rise of the Pāśupata school in second century¹ B.C. while D. R. Bhandarkar suggested on the basis of the Mathurā Pillar Ins. of the time of Chandragupta II that Lākulīśa belonged to the second quarter of the first century A.D.² Although, this later date has been accepted by most scholars, it is not yet certain.³

Diffusion of the School:—The Cintrā Prašasti of Śārngadeva states that four branches (Jātis) sprung forth from the four disciples of Lākulīśa.

(a) The Kuśika Lineage:—Kuśika was the senior-most disciple of Lākulīśa. The Mathurā Ins. of Chandragupta II mentions ascetics belonging to his line. The Udeypur Ins. 4 of Naravāhana V.S. 1028=978 A.D. refers to Kuśika and records that ascetics characterised by "besmearing of ashes,

¹ Vaishnavism, Saivism & Other Minor Religions, p. 116.

² EI, XXI, pp. 1ff.

³ The Mathurā Ins. of Chandragupta II G.S.61 = 380 A.D. mentions āchārya Udita who was tenth from Kuśika. Dr. Bhandarkar identifies Kuśika with the homonymous disciple of Lakulisa and, therefore, came to the conclusion that Lakuliśa, who must have flourished eleven generations before Udita, might be placed in second century A.D. But Rājašekhara mentions seventeen preceptors flourished in this line from Lakulīśa to Rāśikara. In this list there are two preceptors of the name Kuśika the direct disciple of Lakulisa and the tenth tirthesa who flourished in the sixth generation from Lakuliśa. The identification of Kuśika, therefore, is not certain. Rāśīkara the seventeenth tirtheśa has compoposed a commentary known as Pāñchārthi Bhāshya. The internal evidence of the bhāshya suggests an early date of its composition. Pātāliputra has been mentioned as the best fortified city. Laws are comparable with those of Manu. The only known writer quoted in the work is Manu. This indicates early fourth century A.D. Hence if Rāśīkara in early fourth century A.D. was seventh from Kuśika II, the preceptor Udita of the inscription in late fourth century A.D. would be naturally tenth from Kuśika II. I, shall, therefore, suggest the identification with Kasika II which would place Lakulisa in second century B.C. This gets some confirmation from an Indonesian tradition which represents the four disciples with Patañjali as the Pāśupata pentad. (HBD. p. 406 n)

इह कुशिकगार्ग्यकौरुषमैत्रेय इति तदंतसदः ॥१६॥
 ततस्तपस्विनां तेषां चतुर्द्धा जातिरुद्गता ।
 भवं विभुषयामास चतुर्णवमुद्रितां ॥१७॥ EI, I, p. 281.

कुशिकादयोऽन्ये भस्मांगरागतरुवल्कजटािकरीटलक्ष्माण आविर्भवन्मुनयः पुराणाः ।
 L. 12. BI, p. 70.

wearing of the barks and matted hair" appeared in his line. Jain scholars mention eighteen tīrtheśas headed by Lākulīśa and Kuśika. They are also referred to by Bhāva Sarvajña. These ascetics perhaps belonged to this line.

- (b) Gārgya Lineage:-
 - (i) The Cintrā Prasasti discloses the existence of ascetics belonging to the gotra of Gārgya.²
 - (ii) The Meaning of Gotra:—Inscriptions mention several yotras of ascetics. The word gotra in connection with ascetics has been defined by Abhinavagupta as "disciples of a teacher". Gārgya gotra would, therefore, mean the disciples in the line of Garga.

The Cintrā Prašasti mentions Kārttika-rāśī, Taporāśī. Valmīki-rāśī and his disciple Gaṇḍa Tripurāntaka as belonging to this line.

(c) Kaurusha Line:—The third disciple was Kaurusha. Literature mentions a school of Saivism by the name Kāruka.⁴ Rāmānuja and Keśava Kaśmīrī in the enumeration of Saiva schools substitute Kālānana by Kāruka-Siddhānta.⁵ R. G. Bhandarkar, therefore, identifies Kārukas with Kālānanas.

He further suggests that Kāruka was either the corruption or the sanskritization of Kaurusha, the name of the third disciple of Lakulīśa who initiated the line of the Kārukas or the Kālānanas. The suggestion is confirmed by an inscription dated 1177 A.D. which describes the Kālānanas

- ¹ नकुलीशोऽथ कौशिकः, गार्ग्यः, मैत्र्यः, कौहषः, ईशानः, पारगर्ग्यः, किपलाण्ड, मनुष्यकः, कुशिकः, अत्रिः, पिगलः, पुष्पकः, बृहदार्ग्यः, अगस्तिः, सन्तानः, राशीकरः विद्यागृहश्च। एते तेषां तीर्थेशाः पूजनीयाः। Haribhadra: Shad-darsana Samuchchaya. Rājasekhara Sūri also enumerates them. Bhāva Sarvajña mentions them in his commentary on the Gaṇa-Kārikā (p. 14). The Cintra Prasasti records that the first four after Nakulisa were the अन्तसदः (disciples?) of Lakulisa himself. These four are again described as disciples of Lakulisa in the Purāṇas.
- * EI, I, p. 282, V. 19.
- ³ गोत्रंच गुरुसन्तानो मठिकाकुलशब्दित: 1 Tantrāloka III, p. 296.
- शैववैमलसिद्धान्ता आईताः कारकाश्च ये। सर्वे ते पशवो ज्ञेया भैरवे मातुमण्डले ॥ Ibid, VIII, p. 184. मौसले कारकेचैव मायातत्वं प्रकीत्तितम्। Ibid, I, p. 70.
- ⁵ Vaishnavism, etc. p. 172.

as adhering to the Lākulāgama-samaya. The Tandikoda Ins. of Ammarāja furnishes even stronger evidence. It gives the history of a line of Kālāmukha ascetics who traced their origin to Lākulīśa.

The history of this sect would be given a little later.

- (d) Ananta Gotra :-
 - (i) Besides the branches mentioned above, an Agamic tradition describes the continuation of the Lākula doctrine through Ananta.² Ascetics of this line, therefore, were described as belonging to Ananta Gotra.
 - (ii) Ananta Gotra and the Kulas:—The Harsha Stone Ins. records that Viśvarūpa flourished in "the tradition of Kula" while his disciple's disciple is described as belonging to the "Kula" cult of the Sāmsārikas.³ This piece of information is of very great interest as it furnishes definite evidence to show the affiliation of the Kula school with the Lākulas.

Jāti or the branch originated with Maitreya is not known.

(iii) Ananta Gotra and Pāñchārthika Sect:—Harsha Stone Ins. of Vigrahapāla Chāhamāna V.S. 1030 records the guru Viśvarūpa who belonged to the Pāñchārthika sect of the Lākulas in the ananta gotra. Tewar Ins. of Gayakarnadeva K.S. 902=1151

1 EI, XXIII, pp. 161-170.

Jayaratha (T. A. Comm., XII, p. 383) quotes it as from Agama. भैरवाद्भैरवीं प्राप्तं सिद्धयोगेश्वरी मतम् । ततः स्वच्छंददेवेन स्वच्छन्दाल्लाकुलेन तु ॥ लकुलीशादनन्तेन अनन्ताद्गहनाधिपिम् ॥

महाराजावली चासौ शंभुभिततगुणोदया।
 श्रीहर्षः कुलदेवोऽस्यास्तस्माहिव्यः कुलक्रमः॥२७॥
 अनन्त गोच(त्)रे श्रीमान् पण्डित औत्तरेश्वरः।
 पंचार्यलाकुलाम्नाये विश्वरूपोभवद्गुषः॥२८॥
 भावरक्तोभवत्तस्य शिष्यो द्विनामतोल्लटः॥३०॥
 सांसारिककुलाम्नायस्ततो यस्य विनिर्गम ॥३१॥ EI. II, p. 122.

अनन्तगोचरे श्रीमान् पण्डित औत्तरेस्य (श्व) रैं।
 पंचार्थलाकुलाम्नाये विश्वरूपोभवद्गुरः ॥२८॥

EI, I, p. 122; pl. facing p. 240.

The word gochara in the pl. reads like gotre. Tra with the hala assuming the form of cha. Anyway, the word 'anantagochara' means in the line of 'ananta.'

A.D. likewise describes Bhāvateja and his disciple Bhāvabrahma who flourished in the ananta gotra as Pāñchārthika.1

Pāñchārtha seems to be another name for the Pāśupata Sūtras. Šiva Purāṇa mentions Pañchārthavidyā as the highest type of philosophy² while Pañchādhyāyī is referred to by Keśava Kaśmīrī.³ Sarvadarśana—Saṅgraha mentions the Pāśupata Sūtras as Pañchārtha.⁴ Pāñchārthikas, therefore, seem to be the followers of Lākulīśa who composed the Pāśupata Sūtras. It is noteworthy that both these inscriptions mention the Pāñchārthikas of ananta gotra.

- (iv) Uttara Tantra:—The same inscription describes Viśvarūpa as the master of Uttara (tantra). This tantra also occurs in the Sdok Kak Thom (Kambuj) Ins. of Udayadityavarmman, 5 S. 974. Bagchi identifies it with the Uttara-Sūtra of the Niśvāsatattva Samhitā a manuscript of which in Gupta characters is preserved in the Nepal Darbar Library. 6 Jayaratha also mentions uttara as a section of Tantrika Samhitā. 7
- (v) Uttara-Pūrva and the Kaulas:—The Niśvāsa-tattva Samhitā really consists of four sections—(i) Mūla-Sūtra, (ii) Adi= Uttara-Sūtra, (iii) Prathama=Naya-Sūtra and (iv) Pūrva= Guhya-Sūtra. The Uttara-Sūtra consists of "installation of images, sacrifices, initiation (abhisheka and dīkshā) and philosophy (jñānayoga) while the Pūrva or Guhya-Sūtra consists

² Vāyaviya Samhita, II, XXIV, 169.

Naishnavism etc., p. 173.

· loc. cit.

 शास्त्रं शिरश्छेदिवनाशिखास्यं सम्मोहनामापि नयोत्तरास्यम् । तत्तुम्बुरोर्वक्त्रचतुष्कमस्य सिद्धयेव विष्यः समुदर्शस्य ।

सिद्धयेव विप्रः समदर्शयत् सः ॥२८॥ Ins. of Kambuja, p. 374.

6 Studies in Tantras, pp. 6-8.

There are seven kinds of tantrika texts-पादो मूलं तथोद्धारं उत्तरं वृहदुत्तरम् । कल्पश्च संहिता चैव कथिता तव सुव्रते ॥ T.A.Com, XII, p. 387.

गोत्रेऽनन्त समाह्वयेऽभवदिनप्रख्यस्तपस्तेजसा । दृष्टादृष्टिविशुद्धकर्मनिरतः श्रीभावतेजागुरुः ॥ आचार्योद्भुतकेवलार्थवचसां पांचार्थिको यः सुधी । IA, XVIII, p. 210. ff.

of mystic practices. Lakshmīdhara in his commentary on the Saundarya Laharī¹ divides the Kaulas into two categories—
(i) Uttara-Kaulas who worship the images and yantras of gods and godesses and (ii) Pūrva-Kaulas the mystic who worship the female organ of a young woman.

Thus, the Pāñchārthika Viśvarūpa of Ananta Gotra seems to have been affiliated with the Uttara-Kaulas.

- (e) Chāpala Gotra:—The Amareśvara Temple Ins. V.S. I(I)20 contains an account of Paṇḍita Gaṇḍadhvaja of the chāpala gotra.² He was a disciple of Vivekarāśi who was again a disciple of Supūjita rāśi. The Ābu Ins. of the reign of Bhīma II V.S. 1265=1208 A.D.³ mentions Kedārarāsī who was the best of ascetics belonging to the chāpala gotra of the Nūtana monastery in Avanti. Significance of the chāpala gotra is not known.
- (f) Praṇāma Gotra:—The Amareśvara Temple Ins. mentions the Praṇāma gotra of ascetics belonging to Someśvara monastery.4

2. PHILOSOPHY OF THE LAKULĪŚA PĀŚUPATA SCHOOL

A. Nyāya-Pāśupata Philosophy:

Āchārya Haribhadra Sūrī in his Shaḍ-darśana-samuchchaya⁵ observes that the adherants of Nyāya school were Śaivas while the Vaiśeshikas were Pāśupatas. Guṇaratna⁶ also repeats the same thing. It is a fact that the followers of both Nyāya and Vaiśeshika schools were devoted to Śiva⁷

- 1 Saundarya Lahari, V. 41.
- ² EI, XXV, p. 185, II. 54-56.
- एतस्यां पुरि नूतनाभिधमठात् संगन्नविद्यातया ।
 धीरात्मा चपलीयगोत्रविद्ये निर्व्वाणमार्गानुगः ॥
 अमलचपलगोत्रप्रोद्यतानां मुनीनामजिन तिलकरूपस्तस्य केदारराशिः ।

IA, XI, pp. 220 ff.

- ⁴ EI, XXV, p. 185, L. 51.
- अथ योगमतं ब्रूमः शैविमित्यपरामिश्रम् ।
 अथापादो गुरुस्तेपां तेन ते ह्यक्षपादकाः ॥
 अथ वैशेषिक ब्रूमः पाशुपतान्यनामकम् ।

Shaddarsana Samuchchaya, pp. 11-12.

- परं शास्त्रेषु नैयायिकाः सदा शिवभक्तत्वाच्छैवा इत्युच्यन्ते वैशेषिकास्तु पाशुपता ।
 Gunaratna on Shaddarsana Samuchchya, Ibid, p. 30.
- 7 The Purānas mention Akshapāda and Kanāda as the disciples of Somaśarmā-an incarnation of Śiva at Prabhāsa. (Vāyaviya, Śiva Purāna ch. V, vv. 41-42). According to a tradition, Kanāda formulated the Vaiśeshika doctrine after propitiating Śiva. Jayanta, Udayana and Vyomāśiva make obeisance to Śiva in the beginning of their writings.

worship but the statement that the Vaiseshikas were all Pāsupatas in contradistinction to Naiyāyikas who were described as Saivas seems to be faulty.

The combined testimony of literature and inscriptions clearly shows that Vyomaśiva, the Vaiśeshika author belonged to Śaiva Siddhānta school.¹ Bhā-Sarvajña, the Pāśupata teacher who composed the famous commentary Ratnaprabhā on the Gaṇa-Kārikā was the celebrated author of the Nyāya-bhūshaṇa. Udyotakara who composed a gloss on the Nyāya-bhūshya, styles himself as a Pāśupata. Thus, there seems to be some mistake in the statement of Jain writers. The Śaivas were Vaiśeshikas in contradistinction to Pāśupatas who adhered to Nyāya school.

B. Pāñchārthika Philosophy:

Besides the general affiliation with the Nyāya school, the specific philsophy of the Pāśupatas was Pāñchārthika. The pañchārtha-lākula-āmnāya² and the pāñchārthika³ sect have been mentioned in inscriptions. This pañchārtha or the five categories propounded by Lākulīśa in the Pāśupata Sūtras are (i) Effect (Kārya), (ii) Cause (Kāraṇa), (iii) Religious practices (Vidhi), (iv) Yoga and (vi) Cessation of miseries (Dukkhānta).

Inscriptions mention some of these principles.

(a) Cause:—Thus Tewar Ins. of Gayakarna set up by a Pāśupata ascetic invokes Śiva "who is an architect of the three worlds, a poet of the three Vedas, characterised by three Sāktis—yatna (activity), bodha (knowledge) and icchhā (desire) and who manifests himself in eight forms."4

The above verse in short sums up the Pāsupata conception of God—the Cause (Kāraṇa).

- (i) Siva as Creator:—Siva is designated as Pati because he is endowed with Sakti. He with Sakti creates the universe but like an architect he is only an efficient cause (nimitta).
- 1 See infra.
- ै पंचार्यलाकुलाम्नाये विश्वरूपोऽभवद्गुरु: ।।२८।। EI., II. p. 122.

2 IA., XVIII, p. 210 ff.

- त्रैलोक्यसौधशिल्पी यस्त्रिवेदीवाक्यसस्किविः ।
 नित्यप्रयत्नबोधेच्छा सोऽष्टमूर्तिः श्रियंऽस्तुवः ॥ १ Ibid, p. 210.
- 5 Prayatna (kriyā i.e. activity), Bodha (knowledge) and Ichchhā (desire) as mentioned in the inscription are the three Saktis of Pati. Vide निरतिशयद्रवित्रयाशिक्त पतित्वम् । Ganākārikā p. 11.

- (ii) Siva Revealed Vedas:—According to the Nyāya-Pāśupata philosophy, the Vedas are paurusheya as they have been revealed by Siva.
- (b) Religious Practices (Vidhi):—They consist of the vows (vratas), specific practices known as upahāras, muttering of names (japa), circumambulation (pradakshinā) mystic practices, etc.
- (c) Yoga:—Inscription testify to the importance of yoga in the Pāśupata school. The ascetic Bhāvateja had constantly practised yoga while his disciple Bhāva Brahma was "another Sanatkumāra to perform all the yogic practices mentioned in the Pātañjala literature." Niyama (regulations), Prānāyāma (control of breath) and Samādhi² have been mentioned in inscriptions. They also refer to mental states like—maitrī (friendliness), muditā (the state of happiness), Karunā (compassion) etc.3
- (d) Vow (Vrata):—The Pāśupata vrata consists in the besmearing of and sleeping over ashes. This is a very important and ancient practice. It frequently occurs in the Pāśupata literature⁴ and is noted as the characteristic of Pāśupata ascetics.

The Udeypur Ins. of Naravāhana mentions ascetics of this school "having the characteristics of the besmearing of ashes,⁵ wearing of the

भे यो ब्रह्मचर्यविधिनान्यसनत्कुमारः पातंजलागमनिरूपितयोगसंघः । १०

IA, XVIII, 210 ff.

² प्राणायाम-समाधि-सिद्वनियमध्यानासनैरन्वहं १३ Ibid.

भैत्री तस्य सुवीभिरात्ममुदिता शास्त्रागमे योगिनः शिष्यानां करुणा भवेच्च विषयोऽपेक्षा शिवज्ञानतः । १४ Ibid.

The earliest reference occurs in the Atharvasirsha Upanishad I para 67. The application of ashes is termed as Pāsupata-vrata and is meant for the loosening of the fetters of pasu (pasu-pāsa-vimokshāya). Vārāhamihira refers to sabhasma-dvija who is entitled to consecrate the image of Siva. Utpala explains 'sabhasma-dvija' as a Pāsupata. (DHI, p. 230). The Pāsupata Sūtras (pp. 8, 9) enjoin to besmear the body with ashes thrice a day भरमनि त्रिववणं स्नायीत and to sleep on ashes भरमनि श्रयीत Rāsīkara quotes an anonymous verse to the effect that a person who sleeps on ashes is freed from sins of heinous crimes:—

मद्यं पीत्चा गुरुदारांश्च गत्वा स्तेयं कृत्वा ब्रह्महत्यांच कृत्वा । भस्मोद् ध्वस्तो भस्मराशौ शयाना रुद्राध्यायी मुच्यते पातकेभ्यः ।

Panchārthī-Bhāshya p. 29.

Hiuen Tsiang describes them as 'the ash-besmeared tirthakas while Rājašekhara (p. 11) and Haribhadra mention them as 'ascetics who are anointed with ashes.'

भस्मांगरागतस्वल्कजटाकिरीटलक्ष्माण आविभवन्मुनयः पुराणाः । BI. p. 70.

barks of trees and matted hair." According to the Harsha Ins. nakedness, matted hair, besmearing of ashes, sleeping on earth, food received as alms and hand used as drinking cup" were the features of ascetic Bhāvodyota. Sleeping over ashes has been ordained in the Pāsupata Sūtras. The Tewar Ins. praises Bhāva Brahma because he sleeps over pure ashes.²

- (i) Sādhanā or Mystic Practices:—These are objectionable acts deliberately performed by ascetics to bring themselves to ridicule. One of these is Sringārana which is showing oneself to be in love by means of amorous gestures as if on seeing a beautiful lady. Rao suggests that some of the obscene sculptures in ancient temples depict these practices.³
- (ii) Other Practices:—Bhāva Brahma has been described in inscriptions as one "who takes very small quantity of meals obtained through4 begging." Kaundinya enjoins ascetics to take a very small quantity of meals and quotes a verse which highly extols the practice of begging.⁵
- (iii) Pūrtta Activities:—In the ananta school of the Pāśupatas, Pūrtta activities were also recognised. The Tewar Ins. states that "the final deliverance of ascetics is attained by pūrtta (which is a nivartaka activity) and knowledge (bodha). Therefore, Bhāva Brahma who desired salvation built this temple of Šiva." The Swachchhanda Tantra which as we have already seen was recognised in the ananta school, mentions two kinds of worshippers—(a) the devotee who travels on the path of knowledge and who is always engaged in the worship through mantras and (b) the worshipper who follows the path of the world and is engaged in performing the ishṭa and pūrtta activities. The ascetic Bhāva Brahma combined both the ways of knowledge (bodha) and nivartaka activity (pūrtta).
 - ¹ दिगम्बरं जटा भस्म तल्पं च विपुलं मही। भिक्षावृत्तिः करः पात्रं यस्यैतानि परिग्रहः ॥४१॥ कौपीनमात्रवसनः शुचिभस्मशायी L. 10, IA, XVIII, 210ff.
 - 8 EHI, I, p. 23n.
 - 4 मितभैक्षभोजी LL. 9-10. IA, XVIII, pp. 210 ff.
 - ⁵ The Pāsupata Sūtras, 14 and commentary on it (p. 119).
 - पूर्तेन धर्म्मण निवर्त्तकेन मुक्तिर्भवेत् संयमिनश्च बोधात् ।
 एतद् द्वयं प्राप्तुमयं मुमुक्षुव्यधापयदेविममां शिवस्य ॥१६॥

IA, XVIII, p. 210 ff.

त्रानवांश्चाभिपिक्तश्च मन्त्राराधनतत्परः । त्रिविधायास्तु सिद्धिर्वे सो त्रार्हः शिवसाधकः ॥८४॥ द्वितीयो लोकमार्गस्थ इष्टापूर्त्तविधौ रतः । कर्मकृत्फलमाकांक्षंशुभैकस्थो अवग्रह ॥८५॥

Swacchanda Tantra, Pațala 4, Vol. II, pp. 41-42. (e) Dukkhānta:—The Tewar Ins. records that the ascetic Bhāvateja obtained "the association (sāyujya) with Śiva as a consequence of enlightenment (bodha)." The pāśupatas believe in the sāyujya form of salvation. It is mentioned in the Pāśupata Sūtras and is elaborately discussed in the commentary of Rāśīkara. According to it, a devotee does not merge himself in the Godhead but merely obtains association with Him.²

3. PANTHEON

Pāśupatas are devoted to Siva. According to scriptures, they worship Siva besmeared with ashes and wearing jaṭā-mukuṭa. Isāna-śiva-guru-paddhati describes the Pāśupata-form of Siva which might have been the form for the Pāśupatas to worship.

A. The Eight Forms of Siva :-

The Tewar Ins. invokes Siva who manifests himself in eight forms.⁵
The Harsha Stone Inscription set up by a Pānchārthika eulogises the mountain Harsha where Sive in eight forms, the guardians of eight siddhis, resides.⁶
These eight forms of Siva are mentioned in a number of inscriptions in India and Greater India.⁷

The concept of eight forms is very ancient and is associated with the cult of Paśupati. These forms are (i) Śarva, (ii) Bhava, (iii) Iśāna, (iv) Rudra, (v) Ugra, (vi) Bhīma, (vii) Paśupati and (viii) Mahādeva. They are mentioned in Śatapatha and Sānkhāyana Brāhmaṇas, Sūtras etc.

- (i) Ashta-Pushpikā:—The worship of these forms with ashta-pushpikā is also mentioned in inscriptions. The Paśupati Temple Ins. of Jayadeva
 - ¹ शिवस्य सायुज्यमवाप बोधात् ८ IA, XVIII, 210 ff.
 - साक्षाद् रुद्रेण सह संयोगः सायुज्यम् ।*योगपर्य्यायोऽवगम्यते ।

Pañchārthi Bhāshya, p. 131.

- ⁸ EHI, II, I, Introduction p. 29.
- 4 Vol. IV, p. 414.
- त्रैलोक्यसौधशिल्पी यस्त्रिवेदीवाक्यसत्कविः ।
 नित्यप्रयत्नबोधेच्छा सोऽष्टमूर्तिः श्रियेऽस्तु वः ।। IA, XVIII, p. 210 f.
- अष्टमूर्त्तिर्यमध्यास्ते सिद्धचष्टकविभुः स्वयम् । महिमा भुधरस्यास्य V. 11, EI, II, p. 120.
- Devapațțan Prasasti of Śrādhara EI, II, p. 439 V-2. Pasupati Temple (Nepal) Ins. of Jayadeva, (IA, IX, 178) Mebon Stale Ins. of Rājendravarmman (Ins. of Kambuja, pp. 193 ff) Sdok Kak Thom Ins. of time of Udayāditya-varmman (loc. cit.) etc. pp. 361 ff.

records a royal present of an 'eight-petalled silver lotus to the god so that Eight Forms may be accommodated on its petals.\(^1\) The Sdok Kak Thom Ins. of Udayādityu-varmman states that the royal priest used to offer daily an ashṭa-pushpikā to ashṭa-tanu.\(^2\) The worship by ashṭa-pushpikā is described by Bāṇa in the Harsha-charita.\(^3\)

Inscriptions indicate that this cult of ashṭa-mūrtti was specially associated with the Pāśupatas.4

B. Pañcha-Brahma:

Śrī-Kanṭha-pañcha-mukha mentioned in the Cintrā Praśasti was same as the pañcha-mukha form representing Sadyojāta, Tatpurusha, Vāmadeva, Iśāna and Aghora. It may be noted that the Pāśupata Sūtras are divided in five sections each dealing with one of these five forms.

C. Śrī-Kantha, Ananta, Lakulīśa and Goraksha:

These seem to be the Śaiva teachers who later on elevated to the position of deities. Śrī-Kantha and Ananta are mentioned as *Vidyeśvara*⁵ while Lakulīśa is described as an incarnation of Śiva. Goraksha, as we shall see, was one of the five members of the Pāśupata pentad.

- ¹ मूर्तीरष्टाभिरष्टौ महिषतुमतुळै: स्वैर्देलैरष्टमूर्तोः। V. 19. IA, IX, p. 178.
- अतिन्द्रताभ्यस्तिवचार्य्यशास्त्रसारस्समध्यापितवांश्च काले ।
 योऽदात्स्वयं प्रत्यहमष्टपुष्पीन्तनूनपातोऽष्टतनोश्च तुष्टये ॥६७॥

Ins. of Kambuja, p. 377.

- ³ अथ महतः कार्पटिकवृन्दस्य मध्ये प्रातरेव स्नातम् । दत्ताष्टपुष्पिकम् Harsha-charita (Nirṇaya Sāgara Edition), p. 103.

 See also.

 अवनिपवनवनगगनदहनतपनतुहिनिकरणयजमानमयीमूर्तीरष्टाविप ध्यायन्ती सुचिरमष्टपूष्पिकामदात् । Ibid, p. 21.
- 4 It is mentioned in the invocation of the Pañchārthika inscriptions. See fn. 1.
- ⁵ अनन्तश्च त्रिमूर्त्तिश्च सूक्ष्मः श्रीकण्ठ एव च। शिवशिख एकनेत्र एकरुद्रश्च ते क्रमात् ॥ Quoted from Vishņu Dharmottara Purāṇa in EHI, II, II, Appendix. Ananta as Vidyeśvara is mentioned in the Tantrāloka, and Saiva Siddhānta literature. Thus Sarvadarsana Samgraha in the chapter on the Saiva Darśana quotes:

अनन्तरचैव सूक्ष्मरच तथैव च शिवोत्तमः।
एकनेत्रस्तथैवेकरुद्ररचापि त्रिमूर्त्तिकः।।
श्रीकण्ठरच शिखण्डी च प्रोक्ता विद्येरवरा इमे ।।

4 NAMES OF THE PASUPATAS

They generally end in 'rāśī'. They are, sometimes, preceded by the titles bhāva or ganda. Whatever little evidence could be gathered from inscriptions indicates that the Kālānana ascetics who were perhaps the disciples of Kaurusha and the ascetic of Garga school have rāśī—ending¹ names while ascetics of Pranāma and Ananta-gotras have the title of bhāva.² Ascetics of the Gārgya branch bore the title of Ganda which is probably the designation of a pontiff.³

II. KĀPĀLIKA SCHOCL

As is natural, there are few epigraphic references to Kāpālikas. The Chhatra Chaṇḍeśvara (Nepal) Ins. of Jishṇugupta mentions the Pāśupata teachers wearing the garland of skulls. The Tilakawādā CP. of the time of Bhoja Paramāra contains a reference to an ascetic who had taken mahāvrata. As we would see, these mahāvratikas were identical with Kāpālikas. Kāpālikas are also associated with Siva-Sāsana and Soma-Siddhānta.

Early History of the Kāpālikas:—The earliest reference to the Kāpālikas occurs in the Maitri Upanishad⁶ which was composed in the postsūtra period. They are mentioned in the Purāṇas, 7 tāntric works, the Matta-vilāsa, 8 the Mālatī Mādhava, 9 the Karpūra-mañjarī, 10 the Prabandha-

- 1 The Cintrā Prašasti mentions Kārttika-rāši, Tapo-rāši and Vālmiki-rāši. Ascetics of Chāpaliya Gotra in the Abu Ins. have also rāši-ending names-Vālkalarāši, Jyeshṭharāši and Kedāra-rāši and in Amarešvara Temple Ins. they have Supūjitarāši, Vivekarāši. The Bheraghat Ins. of Alhanadevi mentions a Pāšupata ascetic Vyomarāši of Lāṭa lineage. For Kālāmmukhas see Bhandarkar, p. 171.
- Bhāva Vālmīki belonged to Pranāma gotra (EI, XXV, 183) while Bhāva-brahma and Bhāva-teja (I A, XVIII, 210 ff) Bhāvarakta and Bhāvodyota (EI, II, pp. 122-23) were ascetics of Ananta gotra.
- 3 The Cintra Prasasti (EI, I, p. 284).
- 4 मण्डगुंबलिक पाशुपताचार्य पर्षदि (परिषदि)
- ⁵ P & T. O. C., 1919, Poona, 319 ff.
- 6 अथ ये चान्ये ह वृथा कपायकुण्डलिनः कपालिनः । VI, Maitrāyaṇi Upanishad.
- 7 Siva Purāna, Vāyavīya Samhitā, XXIX.
- 8 It depicts revelry of an innocent Kāpālika whose kapāla was taken away by a dog.
- 9 Aghoraghanța and Kapāla-kuṇḍalā are the Kāpālika characters in the play.
- 10 I, V. 23.

chandrodaya, the Chanda-kausika etc. The Śrībhāṣya of Rāmānuja furnishes interesting facts regarding their religious practices. The Lalitavistara states that the bearing of kapāla was regarded as a purificatory act by the hetrodox persons.

A. Mahā-Vrata-Dhara:

The Tilakawādā CP. of the reign of Bhoja 1130 V.S. describes an ascetic Dinakara who was mahā-vrata-dhara and was like Šiva in the form⁵ of Kapālin. A grant was sanctioned by Nāgavardhana, the nephew of Pulakeśi II for the worship of god Kapāleśvara and the maintenance of mahāvratins attached to the temple.⁶ An inscription from Ramnad Dist. (Madras) of the reign of Vīra Pāndya mentions a monastery of the mahāvratins.⁷

Mahāvrata in Literature:—This sect occurs in Siva Purāṇa, Shaddarśana-samuchchaya, Kathā-sarit-sāgara, Yaśastilaka-champu and Nala-champu. 10

(a) Identification:

- (i) Mahā-Vratins and Kālāmukhas:—The Śiva-Purāṇa mentions maha-vrata-dharas in place of the Kālānanas and hence R. G. Bhandarkar regards them as identical.¹¹ The Nala-champu of Trivikrima Bhatṭa composed in tenth century A.D. des-
- Act III introduces a Kāpālika who holds a debate with a Jain monk and a Buddhist bhikshu.
- ² In the IV act Dharma appears in the form of a Kāpālika.
- Rāmānuja (II. 2-35) and Yāmunāchārya both quote the following verses:—

यथाहुः कापालाः

मुद्रिकाषट्कतत्वज्ञः परममुद्राविशारदः । भगासनस्थमात्मानं ध्यात्वा निर्वाणमृच्छति । कंठिका रुचकं चैव कुण्डलं च शिखामणिः । भस्म यज्ञोपवीतं च मुद्राषट्कं प्रचक्षते ॥

- कपालखट्वांगधारणैश्च शुद्धं प्रत्यवगच्छन्ति संमूढाः XVII,
- े उदकग्राहकः तत्र महाव्रतघरो मुनिः । दिनकरो नाम यः साक्षात्कपालीव सं(शं)करः ॥ P & T. O. C. 1919, Poona, p. 319.
- 6 JBBRAS., XIV, p. 26. Bhandarkar, p. 168.
- ⁷ Handiqui: Yasastilaka and Indian Culture, p. 359.
- 8 5. 2. 81. describes a mahāvratin as bearing a kapāla.
- ¹⁰ I. 115. p. 164.
- 11 Bhandarkar, p. 168. He is indecisive. See also supra p. 4 fn. 1, cribes Kālāmukhas as falling under the class of the mahā-vratikas.1

(ii) Mahā-Vratins and Kāpālikas:—But there is overwhelming evidence in favour of their identification with the Kāpālikas. The Tilakavādā² CP. describes a mahā-vratin as Sankara in kapālī form. The above-mentioned Chālukya grant was sanctioned for the shrine of Kapāleśvara and mahā-vratika ascetics³ attached to it. Rājaśekhara enumerates the mahā-vrata sect along with the Kālāmukha and in place of the Kāpālika school.⁴ Jagaddhara in his commentary explains the Kāpālika-vrata as mahā-vrata.⁵ Kathā-sarit-sāgara⁶ describes a mahā-vratika as Kāpālika. Matta-vilāsa contains a verse in which a Kāpālika describes Siva as undergoing mahā-vrata.⁷ Chaṇḍapāla explains mahā-vrata in the commentary of the Nala-champū as Kāpālika⁸ vrata.

Thus, it is certain that the mahā-vratikas were identical with Kāpālikas. As Kāpālikas were associated in literature with Kālāmukhas because of certain common practices, Mahā-vratikas were sometimes confused with Kālānanas.

- (b) Vrata and Mahā-Vrata:—Gondopharnes is one of those early foreign rulers on whose coins Siva appears. It is, therefore, significant that on most of the coins he bears the title deva-vrata where 'deva' is evidently used in the sense of Siva. The Bhāgavata mentions ascetics who had taken bhava-vrata and describes them as wearing bones (skulls), besmearing ashes on body and having matted⁹ hair. The description tallies with Kāpālika
 - किंयुगशिवशासनस्थितिमिव महाव्रतिकान्तःपातिमिः कालमुखैर्वानरैः संकुलामनेकधाभित्रस्रोतसं च
 p. 164.
 - महाव्रतधरो मुनिः । दिनकरो नाम यः साक्षात्कपालीव सं (शं) करः ॥
 P. & T. O. C, Poona, p. 319.
 - 3 JBBR AS, XIV, p. 26.
 - शैवाः पाशुपताश्चैव महाव्रतधरास्तथा ।
 तुर्याः कालमुखा मुख्या भेदा एते तपस्विनाम् ।।

p. 12.

- ⁸ Bhandarkar, p. 183.
- 6 5. 2. 81.
- आस्थाय प्रयतो महाव्रतिमदं बालेन्दुचूड़ामणिः
 स्वामी नो मुमुचे पितामहशिरच्छेदोद्भवादेनसः । १७
- 8 P. 164. Nirnayasāgara Edition.
- भवव्रतघरा ये च ता समनुव्रताः, पाखण्डिनस्ते भवन्तु सच्छास्त्रपरिपंथिनः । नष्टशौचाः मूढिघयो जटाभस्मास्थिधारिणः विशन्ति शिवदीक्षायाः यत्र दैवं सुरासवम् ॥ Bhāgavata, 8. 2.

ascetics. The tradition of vrata, therefore, may be traced to the beginning of Christian era.

B. Kāpālika and Śivaśāsana:

The Malkāpuram Ins. of Rudradeva mentions Šivaśāsana probably in the sense of the Kāpālika.¹ The Prabodha-chandrodaya describes the Kāpālika faith as Pārameśvara-Siddhānta which seems to be the same as Sivaśāsana initiated by Śrī Kanṭha.² The Śābara Tantra mentions Śrī Kanṭha as one of the original twelve āchāryas. This may indicate that it was the original Pāśupata school started by Śrī Kanṭha. The Varāha Purāṇa also narrates that the Pāśupata doctrine was originally given to Kāpālikas.³

But Śivaśāsana revealed by Śrī Kantha was different from the Kāpālika faith. According to a tradition enshrined in the Tantrāloka, 4 school which maintains unity-in-diversity was started by Śrīnātha the mind-born son of Śrī Kantha. This unity-cum-diversity (bhedābheda) school is same as the Kāpālika faith. Śrīnathā is mentioned as originator of the Kāpālika school in the Śābara Tantra⁵ also while Śrī Kantha is regarded only a teacher besides him.

The above discussion would indicate that the Kāpālika school during this period was sometimes identified with Śivaśāsana.

C. Kāpālikas and Siva:

Saivāgamas quoted by Rao state that the Kāpālikas worship Siva

चित्राधिनां पाञ्चपतव्रतानामप्यञ्चवस्त्रादिसमप्पेणाय ॥ JAHRS, IV, 145 ff.

The four important schools mentioned by Rāmānuja, Yāmunāchārya etc (supra p. 3) were four -(i) Saiva, (ii) Pāśupata, (iii) Kālānana and (iv) Kāpālika. The first three schools are identical with (i) Saiva ascetics, (ii) Kālānana and (iii) persons having Pāśupata vow-mentioned in the inscription. The remaining Sivaśāsana, therefore, seems to be identical with the Kāpālikas.

अहो पुण्यं कापालिकचरितमहो क्लाध्यः सोमसिद्धान्तः । प्रविष्टाः स्म पारमेश्वरं सिद्धान्तं । प्रवेशय मां पारमेश्वरीं दीक्षाम । Jayaratha, the commentator of the Tantrāloka (I, p. 73) states पारमेश्वरतन्त्रे "शिवशासने" इति पंचस्रोतोरूपे पारमेश्वरदर्शन इत्यर्थः ।

⁸ EHI, II, I. Intro. pp. 1-3.

⁴ Supra p. 5.

⁵ Dwivedi: Nātha Sampradāya, p. 4.

wearing a garland of bones.¹ The Mahā-vrata-dharas mentioned in the Chālukya inscriptions were attached to the Kapāleśvara temple. The Kapāleśvara form of Šiva is mentioned in the Nirmaṇda CP. of Śarva-varmman.² The Prabandha-chandrodaya³ describes the worship of mahā-bhairava by the Kāpālikas.

The terrific aspect of Siva in the form of mahā-bhairava was thus worshipped by the Kāpālikas.

Inscriptions do not give any information regarding their religious practices.

III. SOMASIDDHĀNTA

This school is mentioned in the Prabhāsapāṭana Ins. of Kumārapāla Val. S.⁴ 850=1169 A.D., the Verāvala Ins. of Bhīma II⁵ and the Chhatrachaṇḍeśvara (Nepal) Ins. of Jishnugupta.⁶

This cult seems to be quite influential in ancient times although no literature of this school is available now. It occurs in tantras and Purānas as quoted by Iśāna-śiva-guru-paddhati, Tantradhikāra-nirnaya, Vīrami-trodaya and Daršana-kaṇikā-saṃgraha. The Prabandha-chandrodaya also gives some interesting information. The Bhāshyachandra of Raghūttama

- 1 EHI, II, I, Intr. p. 29.
- ² CII, III, pp. 286-91.
- ³ Act, III, V. 13.
- 4 BI, pp. 186-187
- ⁵ Ibid, p. 208 ff.
- ⁶ IA, IX, p. 174.
- ⁷ वा (ला) कुलं सोमतन्त्रं च जगाद परमेश्वर: । ISG, III, p. 6.
- 8 Chakravarti: The Some or Sauma Sect of the Saivas, IHQ, VIII, p. 220. Tantrādhikāra-nirṇaya (p. 2 of Rājarājeśvarī Press, Benaras) attributes the following verse to Vasishtha-and Linga-Purāṇas:- केचिल्लोकायतं ब्रह्मन् केचित् सोमं महामुने । नाकुलं केचिदिच्छन्ति तथा केचित्तु भैरवम् ॥ while it (p. 13) quotes from Sūtasamhita:- कापालं नाकुलं चैव तयोर्भेदान् द्विजर्षभा:। तथा पाशुपतं सोमं भैरवप्रमुखागमान् ॥
- Vīramitrodaya (I, p. 22) as quoted from the Kūrma purāṇa वामं पाशुपतं सोमं लांगलं चैव भैरवम् । न सेव्यमेतत् कथितं वेदवाह्यं तथेतरम् ।
- ¹⁰ ननु सोमः कामात्मवादी । तदिप भारते परमात्मस्रोते तस्मै कामात्मने नमः ॥ Quoted by Chakravarti, (IHQ, VIII, p. 221) from a manuscript.
- 11 P. 30 (Nirnaya Sagara edition), and the Akulavīra-tantra¹ of Matsyendranātha make a passing reference to it. Information of exceptional interest, however, comes from the Chinise texts on logic.²

Stories regarding Soma of inscriptions and Somaśarmmā of the Purāṇas who are credited with the founding of a Śaiva school at Prabhāsa seem to be the two versions of the same tradition. It may also be noted that Somaśarmmā is described as the preceptor of Akshapāda, the founder of Nyāya system and Kaṇāda the originator of Vaiśeshika system. Thus, he is associated with logic also. The Naya-soma school of logic whose existence is disclosed by the Chinese texts and which was fore-runner of the Akshapāda system might have been named after him. Thus, there is a great possibility of Soma being a historical figure who founded a Śaiva school of devotion and a nyāya school of thought before Akshapāda who has been placed variously in fourth, third and second century A.D. Satis Chandra Vidyābhūshaṇa, however, places him in 150 A.D. and this seems to be the most plausible date. The Soma school, therefore, might have been originated before second century A.D.

1. Founder of the Cult:—The Prabhāsa Pāṭana Ins. records that Soma (moon) had constructed a golden temple of Somanātha at Prabhāsa and after originating his cult at the instance of Siva gave the place to the Pāśupatas. The Purāṇas state that Siva incarnated himself at Prabhāsa as Somaśarmmā who had four disciples—(i) Akshapāda, the founder of Nyāya school, (ii) Kaṇāda, the founder of Vaiśeshika school, (iii) Ulūka, a teacher of logic sometimes identified with Kaṇāda and (iv) Vatsa. The

2 Pre-Dinnaga Buddist Texts on Logic from Chinise Sources— XXVIII—XXIX.

सम्वादयन्ति ये केचिन् न्यायवंशेषिकास्तथा ।
 बौद्धास्त् अरिहन्ता ये सोमसिद्धान्तवादिनः ॥७॥ Kaulajñāna-nirnaya, p. 84.

The Japanese scholar H. Ui places him between fourth and second century A.D. while Prof. L. Suali dates him in C. 300-350 A.D. History of Indian Logic, p. 50 fn.

सोमः सोऽस्तु जयी स्मरांगदहनो यं निम्मेलं निम्मेमे ।
गौर्याः शापबलेन व कृतयुगे दृश्यत्वमोपेयुषां ।
प्रादात्पाशुपतार्यसाधुसुधियां यः स्थानमेतत्स्वयं ।
कृत्वा स्वामथ पद्धित शिशभृतो देवस्य तस्याज्ञया ॥३॥ BI, pp. 186-187.

[े] सप्तिविशो यदा व्यासो जातूकण्यों भिवष्यति । प्रभासतीर्थमाश्रित्य सोमशर्मा तदाप्यहम् ॥४१॥ तत्रापि मम ते शिष्याः भिवष्यन्ति तपस्विनः । अक्षपादः कणादश्चीलुको वत्सस्तथैव च ॥४२॥ Vāyavīya Samhitā, Ch. V.

Chinese sources disclose the existence of a school in logic called Na-ya-su-mo i.e., Nayasoma. Prof. Tucci notes influence of this school on the Gautama Sūtras as known to the Chinese writers. The word Naya-Soma evidently means 'school of Nyāya associated with Soma'. It is further to be noted that both schools of logic—Nyāya and Vaiseshika are affiliated with Saivism.

- 2. Kāpālika faith and Somasiddhānta:—The Prabandha-chandro-daya identifies Kāpālikas and Soma-Siddhāntins.² Chhatra chandeśvara Ins.³ records them in association with the Kāpālikas. Tāṇtric literature, however, mentions them as two different schools.⁴
- 3. Somasiddhānta in Early Medieval Age:—The Verāvala Ins. of Bhīma II records that the creed propagated by Soma declined in due course and thereafter Viśveśvara-rāši, a partial incarnation of Siva obtained instructions in dream to revive the doctrine.⁵ He, therefore, in the beginning of thirteenth century made vigorous attempts for the propagation of Somasiddhānta.

A. Its Prevalence:

During this period, Somasiddhanta was prevalent in Nepal and Gujrat.

4. Somasiddhānta and 'Chandraśekhara-Mūrtti':—The Verāvala Ins. of Bhīma II which records the architectural activities of Viśveśvara for reviving the Soma creed, begins with an invocation to Śiva who was as if rasāyana for moon. The Prabodha-chandrodaya states that liberated souls, according to this school, assume the form of Chandraśekhara embraced by consorts as beautiful as Pārvatī. It seems that the Umā-sahita-chandraśekhara form was specially worshipped by ascetics of this school.

¹ Tucci, loc. cit.

² अहो पुण्यं कापालिकचरितमहो इलाध्यः सोमसिद्धान्तः । Third Act, p. 119. The Kāpālika is introduced in the play as-ततः प्रविश्वति कापालिकरूपधारी सोमसिद्धान्तः ।

अ मुण्डशृंखलिक पाशुपताचार्य पर्षदिसोमखडडुकानांच IA, IX, 174. "Khadduka occurs on other inscriptions as a name of certain priest of Siva."

⁴ कपालं नाकुलं चैव तयोर्भेदान् द्विजर्षभाः । तथा पाशुपतं सोमं भैरवप्रमुखागमान् ।। Tantrādhikāra-nirnaya, p. 2.

⁵ BI, p. 209-10; VV. 18.19

⁶ प्रालेयांश्वपुरसायनमसौ श्रेयांसि सोमेश्वर: । BI, 208.

पार्वत्त्या : प्रतिरूपया दियतया सानंदमालिंगितो ।
 मुक्तः क्रीडित चन्द्रचूडवपुरित्यूचे मृडानीपितः ।।१६।। Act-III.

IV. SIDDHA SCHOOL

The Rewa Ins. of Malayasimha mentions the Siddhas as ascetics and records that Malayasimha was a Siddhārtha-yogi.¹ The inscription peculiarly begins with an invocation to Mañjughosha—an originally Buddhist god of learning and extols the worship of Rāma.

"An avadhūta by name Śrīmitra flourished in the line of sambuddha-siddha" is mentioned in the Bodha-gayā Ins. of the time of Jayachandra.² Śrīmitra has been further described "as the initiating preceptor (dīkshā-guru) of the king of Kāśī i.e. Jayachandra." It may be recalled here that a MS. of Jayadratha-yāmala was copied by Jomadeva who was ε disciple of the Kulāchārya Śrī-Dharaṇīpāda, the preceptor of the king Jayachandra.⁴

A. Siddha School in Literature:

The Siddha-siddhānta-samgraha⁵ mentions a Siddha school which is identical with the avadhūta and the Nātha sect. The avadhutas are mentioned in the Bhāgavata. The creed of eighty-four Siddhas had become quite influential from eleventh-twelfth century A.D.

2. PANTHEON

A. Goraksha:

He is one of the most important Siddhas. The Cintrā Prašasti of Śārngadeva mentions him as a member of the Pāśupata pentad. This would indicate the influence of the Siddhas over the Lākulīśa Pāśupata sect.

- ¹ सिद्धार्थयोगी मलयानुसिंह: । V. 12. MASI, XXIII, pp
- ² सम्बुद्धसिद्धान्वयधुर्यंभूतः श्रीमित्रनामा परमावधूतः ॥४॥ IHQ. V, 14 ff, Sambuddha-siddha' may be compared with the following verse of the नमञ्जीरंगिनाथाय सिद्धबृद्धाय धीमते ॥१॥ Siddha-siddhānta-paddhati, p. 48.
- 3 V. 11.
- Bagchi: Studies in the Tantras, p. 114.

 महाराजाधिराज श्रीमञ्जयचन्द्र-देवपूजितस्य कुलाचार्य्यं श्री धरणीपादेव नामधेयस्य ।
- The Nātha-Yogi literature always mentions the school as Siddha-school. Thus the Siddha-siddhānta-paddhati of Goraksha mentions the Siddhamata at several places (e.g. p.l. v. 3.) The following verse (p. 39) differentiates the Siddha-mata from other Saiva sects:-

शैवाः पाशुपता महाव्रतधराः कालामुखा जगमाः। शाक्ताः कौलकुलाः कुलार्चनरताः कापालिकाः शाम्भवाः।। एते कृत्रिममंत्रतंत्रनिरतास्ते तत्वतौ वंचिताः। तस्मात्सिद्धमतं स्वभावसमयं धीरः सदा संश्रयेत्।।

6 EI, I, p. 284, v. 46.

B. Rāma in the Siddha School:

The Rewa Ins. of Malayasimha, the Siddhārtha-yogi peculiarly states that "the Siddhas go to high heaven, having performed painful austerities, (but) those, who worship at the shrine of Rāma built by him, obtain the Viśvapada (without endeavour)." From literature we learn that the Siddhas were Siva-Sakti worshippers and hence the building of shrine for Rāma by the Siddhārtha-yogi is rather striking.

C. Rāma in Tāntric and Siddha Literatures:

The *Tantrāloka*¹ mentions Rāma as Śiva, the highest reality. The commentator Jayaratha explains Rāma as the form of Śiva which pervades in the whole universe. Triśirā-Bhairava as quoted by Jayaratha enumerates fourteen kinds of Rāma.

Rāma is frequently mentioned in the later Siddha literature.

D. Mañjughosha:

The Buddhist deity is invoked in the beginning of the Rewa Inscription. There is some evidence that he was also accepted in the Siddha school as a deity.

V. KAULA SCHOOL

The Harsha Stone Ins. of the Chāhamāna² Vigrahapāla V.S. 1030 mentions a sect—Sāmsārika-kula which was originated at the village Rāṇapallikā near the Harsha Mt. in Shekhāvati Dist. of Jeypur State in Rājapūtanā. The name of the sect indicates that it was associated with the Kula school.

The originator of this branch of the Kula school was the ascetic Allața³ or Bhāvarakta who was a disciple of the Pāśupata ascetic Viśvarūpa belonging

- ¹ तीव्रं तपो दु:खकरं प्रकृत्या सिद्धा ब्रजन्तो दिवपूर्ध्वमुच्चै: । यद् (यै:) रामदेवालयवाधि: (मिर्च्चे) ता ये प्रायेण ते विश्वपदं प्रयाता: ॥२७॥ The line is rather corrupt.
- पष रामो व्यापक्तोऽत्र शिवः परम-कारणम् ॥४४॥
 Commenting upon it, Jayaratha says:एष रामः सकलविश्वावभासनपरः क्रीडापरः परमात्मा परमेश्वरः ।

 Tantrāloka, I, p. 136.
- हर्थस्यासन्नतोग्रामः प्रसिद्धो राणपिल्लका ।
 सांसारिककुलाम्नायस्ततो यस्य विनिर्गमः ॥३१॥ EI, II. 116 ff to the Pañchārthika school of the Pāśupatas.¹ The inscription indicates very close relation between the Pāśupatas and the Kaulas. This is further confirmed by the fact that Goraksha, the disciple of the Kaula preceptor Matsyendra, was recognised in the Pāśupata fold. Further, the tradition of the Siddhayogīśvarī school is described to have been continued through Lakulīśa by his disciple Ananta and his disciple Gahaneśa or Gahanādhipa.² (Is he identical with Gahanīnātha mentioned as an ascetic in the Siddha school?) It may be noted that Viśvarūpa belonged to the Ananta gotra.

VI. KĀLĀNANAS

The Kālānana sect has not been mentioned in inscriptions of Northern India. The sect was, however, very influential in south. It had several important centres under the Chālukyas. Kālāmukha ascetics also served as rājagurus of the Chālukya kings.³

VII. THE SAIVA SIDDHANTA SCHOOL

1. HISTORY.

A. The Founder: Guhāvāsī:—The Gurgi Ins. of Prabodha-śiva C. 973 A.D. records that the faultless Saiva-siddhānta doctrine was preached by the ascetic who was head of the line to which Prabodha-śiva belonged. The Ranod Ins. of Vyomaśiva further describes that this line of ascetics came into existence as a blessing from Siva to Brahmā who performed a

- पंचार्थलाकुलाम्नाये विश्वरूपोऽभवद्गुरुः ॥२८॥
 दीक्षाजातमलध्वंस—विस्फुरज्ञानिनम्मेलः ।
 प्रशस्ताख्यो भविच्छिष्यस्तस्य पाशुपतः कृती ॥२९॥
 भावरक्तोऽभवत्तस्य शिष्यो द्विनामतोऽल्लटः ॥३०॥ Ibid.
- ² यदागमः

भैरवाद्भैरवीं प्राप्तं सिद्धयोगीश्वरीमतम् । ततः स्वच्छन्ददेवेन स्वच्छन्दाल्लाकुलेन तु ॥ लकुलीशादनन्तेन अनन्ताद्गाहनाधिपम् । Tantrāloka, XII, p. 383.

- Bastern Chālukyas, p. 167, see also Haṇḍiqui: Yasastilaka-champu and Indian Culture, pp. 348 ff. EI, XXIII, p. 161 ff.
- पूर्वे यत्रावतीर्य विरतिनयतमनोभवत्तापसेन्द्रः ।
 शिष्यानामाशशंसुः शिवमतमतनुव्यस्तिनः शेषदोषम् ॥४॥

MASI, XXIII, pp. 122 ff.

sacrifice at $D\bar{a}ruvana$.¹ Head of the line was $Guh\bar{a}v\bar{a}s\bar{\imath}$ as mentioned in several inscriptions. Thus, these inscriptions mention $Guh\bar{a}v\bar{a}s\bar{\imath}$ of $D\bar{a}ruvana$ as the preacher of Śaiva-siddhānta doctrine.

The association of Guhāvāsī with Dāruvana is mentioned in the Purānas and inscriptions. The Skanda Purāna² describes the holy place of Dāruvana where Siva incarnated himself as Guhāvāsī and allured the wives of ascetics in the Bhikshā-naṭa form. The story occurs in the Lingapurāna³ also. The Halāyudha-stotra⁴ as inscribed in the Amaresvara temple before 1120 V.S. also refers to the incarnation of Siva at Dāruvana as a beggar (bhikshā-naṭa).

It may further be noted that one of the twenty-eight incarnations of Siva mentioned in Linga-Vāyu and Kurma-purānas was *Guhāvāsī.*⁵ In Bhikshā-naṭa form Guhāvāsī is represented in sculptures.

Guhāvāsī who promulgated the doctrine of Śaiva-siddhānta school seems to have been held as an incarnation of Siva like Lakulīśa the originator of the Lakulīsa Pāsupata dostrine.

(i) The tradition of Durvāsā-Amarddaka as originator:—The Tantrā-loka6 records the tradition that this dualist Śaiva school was started by

- भक्त्योपसत्रं स्थिरभिक्तगम्यः पद्मासनं दारुवनेतिरम्ये ।
 विधाय यज्ञं विधिना विधिज्ञः किलानुजग्राह पुरा पुरारिः ॥६॥
 यच्छन्फलम्विपुलनिवृत्तिबीजमुच्चैः पूर्वित्तरं विपुलविद्धितभूरिशाखः ।
 तस्मादपूर्व्वं उदभूरमुनिवंश एव निर्गृत्थिरन्तरितसारतरोस्तरन्ध्रः ॥७॥
 तस्मिन्मुनिः सकललोकनमस्यमूर्तिरिन्दूपमः प्रतिदिनं समुदीयमानः ।
 श्रीमानभूद्भुवि कदम्ब (म्व) गुहाधिवासी ॥८॥ EI, I, pp. 354 ff.
- वतो गच्छेच्च राजेन्द्र गुहावासीति चोत्तमम् । यत्र सिद्धो महादेवो गुहावासीति शंकरः ॥ युधिष्ठिर उवाच केन कार्येण विप्रेन्द्र गृहावासीति शंकरः ।
- ³ पूर्वं दारुवने विप्राः वसन्ति च सुरैस्समाः
- दारूद्याने द्विजवरवध्यप्रका रेतसाग्नी
 होमः सन्ध्यानटनिमित ते चेष्टितं नैव दृष्टम् ॥३४॥

EI, XXV, p. 175.

- ⁵ गोकर्णः गुहावासी शिखण्डी चापरः स्मृतः ।
- ⁶ तानि कलिकालुष्यात् उपदेष्ट्रजनपरम्परान्तर्घानवशात् विच्छिन्नसंचाराणि व्यनश्यन् । इत्यं व्युच्छिन्ने शिवशासने कदाचित् कैलासगिरौ परिश्रमन् श्रीकण्ठ मूर्तिः शिवो विच्छिन्नस्य निखिलशैवशास्त्रोपनिषत्सारभूतस्य षडर्घत्रमविज्ञानस्य प्रचारार्थं दुर्वाससं मुनिमाजिज्ञपत् । स मुनिः मानसान् सिद्धान् त्रयम्बक-आमर्दक-श्रीनाथाख्यान् अद्वय-द्वय द्वयाद्वयमतव्याख्यातृन् मठिकासु सत्सम्प्रदायमार्गं प्रचारियतुं न्युंक्त ।

Tantrāloka I, 28.

Amarddaka. The Śaiva schools of philosophy disappeared because of Kali age. Śiva, therefore, took pity on men engrossed in spiritual darkness and commanded Durvāsā to preach the doctrine. The sage, thereupon, created three mind-born sons—Tryambaka, Āmarddaka and Srīnatha who respectively promulgated the Non-dualist (Trik), Dualist (Śaiva) and Dualist-non-dualist schools (maṭha) of philosophy.

This tradition recurs in many tāntric works where Durvāsā is represented as the founder of the Āmarddaka-maṭha.¹

(ii) Durvāsā Line and Āmarddaka-maṭha:—The Malkapuram² Ins. of Rudradeva describes Viśveśvara-śambhu as belonging to the line of Durvāsā through Sadbhāva-śambhu of Dāhala region. Sadbhāva-śambhu, however, belonged:to the line of Guhāvāsī. It is strange that no person by name Durvāsā recorded to have flourished in this line from Guhāvāsī to Viśveśvara-śambhu and yet the line was named after Durvāsā.

 $T\bar{a}ntric$ works as mentioned above allude to the tradition that the $\bar{A}marddaka$ -matha was founded by Durvāsā.

Tantrāloka also describes the founding of the non-dualist school (maṭha) by Āmarddaka at the instance of Durvāsā. In the Guhāvāsī line three main branches sprung forth—(a) Āmarddaka-maṭha, (b) Mattamayūra and (c) Mādhumateya respectively founded by Āmarddaka-tīrthanātha, Rudra-śambhu, Mattamayura-nātha Purandara and Pavanaśiva. This Āmarddaka branch (maṭha) is mentioned in the Rāshtrakuta³ and Prathiāra⁴ inscriptions. Visveśvara-śambhū⁵ also belonged to this branch founded by Rudra-śambhu at the instance of Durvāsā (as noted by Tantrāloka) and this is the only explanation for describing him as belonging to the line of Durvāsā.

Thus, the joint evidence of inscriptions and literature would prove that Guhāvāsī orginated the dualist Saiva school of philosophy which was systematised and spread by Āmarddakatirtha-nātha or Rudra-śambhu.

JAHRS, IV, pp. 147 ff.

¹ Hultzsch, Report on Skt. MSS., II, Intr. p. XVI ff. Cat. Catalo. I. p. 257; II. p. 55 etc.

अस्ति विश्वमभरासारः कमलाकुलमन्दिरम् । भागीरथी नम्मदयोम्मध्यं डहलमण्डलम् ॥ नीत्वा कालमनन्तमन्तकजयी सद्भावशम्भुःगुरु र्दुर्वोसोन्वय सम्भवस्सुचरितः

³ EI, III, 263-267., EI, IV, 286.

⁴ श्रीमदामर्द्कसन्तानीय श्रीशिवदेवाचार्यसुतश्रीमहेश्वराचार्य्याय Haddal Grant of the time of Mahipāla Pratikāra, IA, XII, p. 193ff.

⁵ JAHRS, IV, 147 ff.

- (iii) Dates of Rudra-Śambhu and Guhāvāsī:—The Chandrehe Ins. of Prabodha-śiva is dated in K.S. 724=973 A.D. Prabodha-śiva is twelfth from Guhāvāsī and hence taking twenty-five years for one generation Guhāvāsī may be placed in c. 675 A.D. and Rudra-śambhu in c. 775 A.D.
- B. Diffusion and spread of the Sect:—The sect spread from the Punjab in the north to Tamil region in the south and influenced several kings of this period.
- (a) Āmarddaka-maṭha and Durvāsā Line:—Rudra-śambhu or Āmarddakatīrthanātha founded the matha whose disciples (santāna) spread in the Rājputana, Karahat and Karṇātaka. The Rajore Ins.¹ of Mathanadeva of the time Vināyakapāla Pratihāra V.S. 1016—959 A.D. mentions Omkāra-śiva, Rūpaśiva and Srīkanṭha as the āchāryas of the Āmarddaka-maṭha belonging to the Soparīya line. Another line termed Karanjakheṭa-santati is found in the Karahāṭa area. The Karhad CP. of Krishna III S. 880 records a grant to Ganganaśiva, a great ascetic versed in the whole Śiva-siddhānta (philosophy), the pupil of Iśanasiva head, of Vālkaleśvara maṭha.² This ascetic Gaganaśiva was the spiritual teacher of the Alūpa king Dattal-pendra Srimāra as known from the Mudukāri (Someśvara Temple) Inscription.³ Here he has been described as belonging to the line of Durvāsā.
- C. Golakī maṭha:—Sadbhāva Śambhu same as Prabhāva-śiva in the line of the Āmarddaka-tirtha-nātha established the tradition of the Golakī Maṭha. The tradition flourished in the Telgu and Tamil area.
- (a) Telgu Region:—The Pushpagiri⁴ (Kurnool District) Ins. mentions Golakī Maṭha. The four Tripurāntaka⁵ (Kurnool Dist.) Inscriptions mention Sānta-śiva, Dharma-śiva, Vimala-śiva and Viśveśvara-śiva of
 - श्रीमदामई्क विनिर्गत श्रीसोपुरीयसंतत्यां श्रीछत्रशिव.....
 श्रीश्रीकण्ठाचार्यशिष्य श्रीरूपशिवाचार्यस्तिच्छिष्य श्रीमदोंकारशिवाचार्यस्यास्खिलत
 ब्रह्मचर्यावाप्त मिहम्नः इत्यादि १३-१५

EI, III, 263-267.

- ² करहाटीयबल्कलेश्बरस्थानपति करंजखेटसन्तिति विनिर्गतेशानशिवाचार्यशिष्याय महातपस्विने सकलशिवसिद्धान्तपारगाय गगनशिवाय इत्यादि ६०-६१ EI, IV, 286.
- 3 The inscription is in Kannada. The relevant portion runs as follows:-श्रीमतु दुर्वासस्मृतीन्द्रवशतिलक य सन्तिति संजातरप्प श्रीमद्गगनिशवाचार्यरिगे दत्तालपेन्द्र श्रीमार ओड्डम इत्यादि

SII, VII, No. 134, p. 165.

^{4 323} of 1905.

⁵ 195, 223, 273, and 323 of 1905.

the Golakī Maṭha. The Alugurajupalle¹ (Palnad Talukā, Guntur Dist.) Stone Ins. of the Kākātīya king Ganapati Deva also refers to a Golakī monastery.

(b) Tamil Region:—Inscriptions of Jaţāvarmman Tribhuvana Chakravartin Vīra Pandya Deva contain references to Puragali Perumala belonging to the line of Jnānāmṛtāchārya of Hīlāhi² (Golakī maṭha) and Aghoradeva of Jnānāmṛtāchārya-santāna of Golakī Maṭha.³ A late inscription describes the head of a maṭha as Pāṇḍi-mauḍalādhipati alias Lakshādhyāyi-santāna of the Golakī Maṭha.⁴ The Krishṇa Golakī Maṭha is mentioned in the Tinivarur (Tanjore dist.) Inscription.⁵

The Malkapuram Ins. of the Kākātiya Rudradeva S. 1183. however, is of outstanding importance. Viśvesvara-śambhu the founder of the Viśveśvara-golakī maṭha was the spiritual father of the King Gaṇapati (1213-1249 A.D.) of Warangale. The inscription describes in detail the philanthropic activities of the Golakī Maṭha.6

- D. Mattamayūra Lineage:—The fifth ascetic in the line was Purandara who initiated the prince Avantivarmman in the faith. The king dedicated his kingdom to his spiritual preceptor as an honorarium where the ascetic founded a monastery at Mattamayūra⁷ town.
- (a) The Monastery of Mattamayūra:—Prof. Mirashi has identified⁸ mattamayūra town with Kadawahā as it "possesses remains of a Hindu monastery" and because "it is not far from Terahi, Ranod and Mahua". The identification, however, is not plausible.

Inscriptions clearly indicate that Mattamayūra town or the kingdom of Avantivarmman was far away from the place where Purandara was

^{1 289} of 1930-31.

^{2 359} of 1916.

^{3 362} of 1916.

^{4 213} of 1924.

⁵ Ep. Rep. of the S. Circle for 1910 p. 97. Isanasiva, Pānditanattu Panditanaudalādhipati alias Lakshādhyayisantān: finds mention in Tinumalainādu of S. S. 1452 1530—1 A.D. (193 of 1924) Ep. Rep. of the S. Circle for 1924, p. 114.

⁶ JAHRS, IV. p. 147 ff.

⁷ EI, I, p. 259, V. 49; see also p. 355 vv. 11-13.

⁸ IHQ, 1950, p. 9.

performing his austerities and, therefore, the place should not be located in Mālavā.1

Inscriptions further indicate that the town of Mattamayūra was in the kingdom of Ávantivarmman who must have flourished in the beginning of ninth century A.D. History is unaware of any prince of this name in ninth century A.D. Kielhorn identifies him with Avanivarmman of the Chālukya dynasty without any cogent reason. Mirashi on the basis of the Maser Inscription regards him to be a predecessor of Avanivarmman. This view, however, involves many difficulties.²

The verse in the inscription is:वन्द्यः कोपि चकास्त्यिचिन्त्यमिहिमा तुल्यं मुनिर्भास्वता
राजन्नुत्तम शब्द (ब्द) पूर्व्वशिखराभ्यण्णंम्प्रकीणंद्युतिः ।
दीक्षार्थीति वचो निशम्य सुकृतीचारोक्तमुर्वीपति
यंस्येहानयनाय यत्नमकरोच्छ्रीमानवन्तिः पुरा ।।
I shall like to translate it as follows:-

"Oh King there is an ascetic of unimaginable splendour, shining like Sun whose fame has spread to far off Uttama sikhara"—hearing the words the king illustrious Avanti (Varmman) tried to bring the ascetic. This would suggest that the king Avanti got the information of this famous ascetic from a spy and then tried to bring him in his territory.

² The generalogy of the Chālukya kings has been constructed by Mirashi as follows:-

Avantivarmman	A.D.	825
Avanivarmman	A.D.	850
Sadhanya	A.D.	875
Simhavarmman	A.D.	900
Narasimha	A.D.	950
Keśarin	A.D.	975

The history of the dynasty is given in the Bihhari Ins. (EI, I, p. 2)58 is as follows:-

अभवदनवनिवम्मा विश्वविख्यातकर्मा ॥३४॥

पितामहो यत्खलु सिंहवर्मा पिता यद्वीरवरस्सघन्वः ॥३५॥

Thus, Avanivarmman was the son of Sadhanva and grandson of Simhavarmman while in Mirashi's table he is shown as grandfather of Simhavarmman and father of Sadhanva. Thus, Sadhanva was the father and not Avantivarmman as shown by the learned scholar. Secondly, there is no evidence whatsoever to maintain that Avantivarmman belonged to the dynasty of the Chālukyas or Sulkis.

The Mahābhārata¹ locates the Mattamayūras in the Punjab near Rohtak. It is interesting to note that in seventh-eighth century A.D. a varmman dynasty was ruling in this area. The Lakkha Mandala Praśasti of the Queen Isvarā² of Jālandhara who belonged to the Varmman dynasty of Simhapura was inscribed by Iśvaranāga of Rohtak. Buhler identifies Simhapura with Seng-ho-pulo of Huen Tsiang located near Salt Range in the Punjab.³ I would, therefore, like to identify the town Mattamayūra in the Punjab in the kingdom of these Varmmans. Avantivarmman might have belonged to this Varmman line.

The Mattamayūra and Ranipadra monasteries sent forth their branches to Mālavā, Karkaroni in Deccan and several places in the modern Madhya Pradesh.

(i) The Mālavā Branch:—The Prāyaschitta-samuchchaya⁴ mentions an ascetic Lambakarṇa of Ranipatra monastery who was the spiritual teacher of the king Sīyaka of Mālavā. He has been described as one who heard the whole of the Śaiva-siddhānta philosophy and was like a Śiva on Kailāśa. The Purānas⁵ mention Lambakarṇa as a bhairava at Avanti. The ascetic Lambakarṇa described as Śiva might have been regarded as Bhairava. The line of Lambakarṇa, continued through Iśvara-śiva whose disciple Hṛidaya-śiva composed the Prāyaschitta samuchchaya.

¹ Sabhāparva. XXXII

² EI, I, p. 8.

⁸ Siyuki, I, pp. 43-44.

[▲] ISC, II, Preface, p. 1.

मत्तमयूरवंशजे श्रीरणिपत्रलम्बकर्ण इति नाम प्रथितः पृथिव्यां मुनिः ।

निखलशैवसिद्धान्तश्रोत्रसंस्कारपावनः ।

चन्द्रांकितजटाजूटः कैलासस्येव शंकरः ।।

श्रीरणिपत्रकाश्रमाद् गोरिठकामठे गमात् ।।१।।

धारायां सी (स्वी) यकमिति अनुजग्राह पार्थिवः ।।

आसीत् ततो सन्ततौ मुनिः श्री ईश्वर इति ।

जगतीपितिभिर्नृपैः पूजितपादपंकजः ।।

Notices of Sanskrit Manuscripts and Select Palm-Leaf in Durbar Library,

p. 215.

⁵ अवन्तौ च महादेवी लम्बकर्णस्तु भैरवः ।।८८।।

The Sākta Pithas, JR.ASB, 1948, p. 55.

- (ii) The Deccan Branch:—The donee in the Kharepatan¹ CP. of Rattarāja S. 930 is Ambhoja-śambhu. He flourished in a series of pontiffs of the Karkareni branch of the Mattamayūra line. The Naimittika-kriyānu-sandhana² was composed by Brahma-śambhu of this Karkaroni branch in S. 960.
- (iii) The Kadwaha Branch:—The Kadwaha Ins. of the Chanderi-Pratihāra dynasty informs us of Dharma-siva belonging to Ranipadra monastery who was the spiritual teacher of Harirāja Pratihāra (c. 10th century A.D.). Another inscription from the same place associates Isvara-siva with a king Bhīma Bhūpa.

Thus, the ascetics of this branch spread from the Punjab (Salt Range) to Deccan. They wielded considerable influence in Central India. Kings of Varmman dynasty of the Punjab, of Chanderi Pratihāra and Paramāra dynasties in Central India were their spiritual disciples.

E. Mādhumateya Line:—The Mādhumateya monastery was founded by Pavana-śiva which sent its branches to Gurgi, Chandrehe, Bilhari and elsewhere. Prabhāva-śiva to be identified with Sadbhāva-śiva was held in veneration by the Kalachuri king Yuvarājadeva I and Lakshmaṇarāja. The inscription describes the footstool of the ascetic "as being worshipped by the accumulation of the lustre of jewels in the crest of several kings." He was approached by the King of Kuntala.

Another line of Prabhāva-śiva ran through Somaśambhu whose disciple Vāmaśambhu initiated a line of the rājagurus of the Kalachuri kings which continued to the end of the Kalachuri dynasty in Dāhala.

The Rājagurus of Kalachuri Kings:—The Malkāpuram Ins. of the Kākātiya king Rudradeva states that Yuvarājadeva gave three lakhs of

श्रीमत्तमयूरान्वयान्तर्गतकर्करोणिसन्तान-गुरुकमायात-सिद्धान्ततत्त्वादिहृतमोहान्धतम-सामातपोमहिमप्रध्वस्ताशेपसंगानां प्रवो (वो) धप्रदीपप्रकाशितस्वर्गापवर्गमार्गाणां समाधिजलब्ध (ब्ध) त्रिभुवनकीर्तीनां श्रीमदम्भोजशम्भुगुरूणां इत्यादि २-५५

² ISG, II, Preface, p. 1.

⁸ Gwalior Arch. Rep. V. S. 1998, No. 6. Gwalior Rājya Ke Abhilekha, No. 627, p. 85. See also Bhandarkar's List, No. 2107 for another inscription of the same dynasty.

⁴ Gwalior Rājya Ke Abhilekha, p. 85, No. 628.

ते निवसति वनवासे कुन्तलोमुनिः

villages in Dāhala maṇḍala to Sadbhāva-śambhu who with this princely donation founded a monastery known as Golakī Maṭha.¹ The evidence from Gurgi and Chandrehe inscriptions indicates that Sadbhāva-śambhu was identical with Prabhāva-śiva the disciple of Madhumateya Chūḍāśiva.² He was succeeded by Somaśambhu and after him came Vāmaśambhu "whose feet were embellished by the row of crowns of kings and are even now meditated upon by the Kalachuri kings".³ The statement finds striking epigraphic corroboration as no less than seven kings—Lakshmīkarnna, Yaśaḥkarna, Narasimha, Jayasimha, Vijayasimha, Śankaragana and Trailokyavarmmadeva Chandella king who supplanted the Kalachuri dynasty are styled as "meditating upon the feet of Paramabhaṭṭāraka, Mahārājadhirāja Parameśvara illustrious Vāmadeva".⁴ The reason for mentioning the ascetic in this way is known from the commentary by Jonarāja on the Prithvīrāja-Vijaya.⁵ He states that the Kalachuri king

¹ नीत्वा कालमनन्तकजयी सद्भावशम्भोर्ग् हर्दुर्वासोन्वय संभवस्सुचरितः प्राबुद्धपुण्यैः नृपाणाम् ।
शैवानां प्रथमाय शंकरपदध्यानामृताम्भोनिधिकीडाम्ब्रेडनकम्मं निम्मंलतरस्वान्ताय शान्तात्मने ।
तस्मै निस्पृहचेतसे कलचुरिक्ष्मापालचूडामणिर्ग्रामाणां युवराजदेव नृपितिभिक्षा नित्रलक्षीं ददौ ॥

[AHRS, IV, p. 157.

- ² The Chandrehe Ins. of Prabodhasiva mentions that Prabhāva-śiva made to accept the earth sanctified by the touch of his feet by Yuvarājadeva" Again the Gurgi Ins. of Prabodhasiva (EI, XXII, p. 133) records the same fact that Yavarājadeva made Prabhāvasiva to accept a monastery constructed at an enormous cost". Thus, there cannot be any reasonable doubt in the identi ofty Sadhāva-Sambhu and Prabhāva-siva.
- अथ नृपशेखरमालालालितपादोत्रवामशम्भुरभूत् । अद्यापि कलचुरीशा यच्चरणाराधकाः प्रशस्यन्ते ॥
- 4 (a) Banaras CP. of Lakshmīkarnna K.S. EI, II, pp. 305 ff.
 - (b) Khairha CP. of Yasahkarna, EI, XII, pp. 210 ff.
 - (c) Lal Pahad Ins. of Narasimhadeva, IA, XVIII, pp. 215 ff.
 - (d) Rewa CP. of the time of Jayasimha, IA, XVII, pp. 246 ff.
 - (e) Kumbhi CP. of Vijayasimhadeva, EI, XXXI, p. 116.
 - (f) Sagar Ins. of Sankaragana, EI, XXVI.
 - (g) Rewa CP. of Trailokyamalladeva, EI, XXV, I. ff.
- ⁵ साहसिकस्तपस्विने वामदेवनाम्ने निजराजलक्ष्मीं गुरुदक्षिणायै दत्वा सर्वौ भूमि जेतुं प्रस्थितवान् ॥

Prithvirāja Vijaya, p. 174.

Sāhasika after dedicating his empire to his spiritual preceptor Vāmadeva, proceeded to conquer the whole earth. The king Sāhasika is most probably the king Yuvarājadeva II as shown elsewhere. Since his reign. there is a continued line of the rājagurus in succession running from Vimalasiva and his disciple 1 Vāstusiva were probably Vāmaśambhu. the spiritual teachers of Kokalla II and his son Gangeyadeva. The name of the preceptor of Lakshmīkarnna is lost. Purushasiva was "the prosperity of Yasahkarna" and Saktisiva was "the real power of the king Gayakarna". His disciple Kīrttiśiva was probably the preceptor of Narasimha while Vimalasiva described in the Jubblepur Kotwali Ins. of Jayasimha as "the illustrious rājapuru" was "shewing great vigilance in looking after all royal affairs". His disciple Dharmasiva perhaps migrated to south where his disciple Viśveśvara-śambhu, worshipped by the kings of Mālavā and Chola countries initiated the Kākātiya king Gaṇapati in Saivism.

Śāntaśiva and Nādaśiva were also the disciples of Vimalaśiva as mentioned in the Rewa CP. of Trailokyavarmmadeva.² Nādaśiva executed a deed of mortgage on behalf of Śāntaśiva in which the village Allorā was pledged to Rānaka Dhārekha in Śaivism.

This would indicate that after the fall of the Kalachuri dynasty, these ascetics had fallen on evil days and, therefore, they migrated to different places.

Thus, the line of rājagurus started from Vāmašambhu in the time of Yuvarājadeva II (c. 975 A.D.) continued for more than two hundred and fifty years and ultimately came to an end in c. 1225 A.D. when the dynasty was supplanted by the Chandella ruler Trailokyavarmmadeva.

F. The Rajagurus of the Chola Kings:— It is supposed that there was a succession of the rājagurus throughout the Chola rule³ also. Išāna-siva and Šarvasiva are mentioned in inscriptions of Rājarāja I (985-1014) and Rajendra Chola (1012-1044). There is epigraphic evidence to show their considerable influence in the Chola court during Kulottunga I (1070-1120 A.D.) and Kulottunga III (1182-1216 A.D.).

¹ See Appendix A.

² It is noteworthy that Śāntaśambhu is mentioned as the incarnation of Durvāsā, EI, XXV, p. 1 ff.

³ Cholas, II, p. 484.

The line of Iśāna-śiva-guru is mentioned in the Karma-kriyā-kānda¹ and the Paddhati composed by Somaśambhu. Iśāna (śiva) was succeeded by Vimala-śiva whose disciple Śarva-śiva is mentioned in inscriptions. It is stated that Rajendra I was supplying a large quantity of grains as āchāryabhoga to Śarva-śiva and his disciples in the Āryadeśa, Madhyadeśa and Gauḍadeśa. His disciple Somaśambhu composed several Śaiva works.

Siddhānta-sārāvali of Trilochanaśivāchārya records a tradition that Rajendra Chola saw the best of the śaivas in Northern India when he came to take a bath in the Gangā and carried them to settle in his own country in Kānchi and elsewhere in the Chola land². Viśveśvara-śiva of the Malkapuram Ins. of the king Rudradeva was an inhabitant of Gauḍadeśa and belonged to the Golakī Maṭha of Pāhala region who established a monastery at Mysore³. South Indian inscriptions mention some ascetics of the line of Bhikshā-maṭha and Kollamaṭha⁴ at Vāraṇasī. This would indicate that the ascetics of Śaiva-siddhānta school migrated from north to south during this period.

G. Ascetics in Vārāṇasī:—The Gurgi Ins. of Prabodhasiva records that the ascetic Prabodhasiva built an abode at Vārāṇasī⁵. Disciple of

- भीशाननामा शिवतुल्यधामा तस्याथ शिष्यो विमलेशनामा ।
 तस्यापि शिष्योस्ति शिव (शर्व) शिशवात्मा शिष्यो भवद्यस्य च सोमशम्भुः ॥४॥
 In the manuscript of Karmmakriyākāṇḍa (Cat. of Palm Leaf & Sel. Paper Man. in Nepal: H. P. Sastri, p. 45) Srīšāna is mentioned as Srigona. This Somašambhu is different from Somašambhu of the Malkapuram Ins. of Rudradeva. Saivabhūshaṇa Grantha mentions one Somašambhu who wrote a paddhati.

 उग्रोत्तरज्योतिरथो स सद्यक्षीरामकण्ठोपि च वैद्यकण्ठः ।
 नारायणश्चापि विभूतिकण्ठः श्रीनीलकण्ठावपि सोमशम्भुः ॥
- राजेन्द्रचोळ इत्याख्यः चोळभूपो महीं वसन् । गंगास्नानार्थमागत्य दृष्ट्वा शैवान्वरान्तदा ॥ स्नात्वा प्रतिनिवृत्तस्सन् तान् समादाय शैवकान् । स्वराज्ये स्थापयामास शैवाचार्यवरांस्तदा । कांचीमध्ये चौळभूमौ सर्वत्रैव प्रविस्तराः ॥

ASI. AR, 1911-12, p. 176.

³ JAHRS, IV, p.

[·] Cholas, pt. II, p. 485.

⁵ MASI, XXIII, 122 ff, V. 14.

Kumārašiva the guru of Mūlarāja Solanki belonging to this faith had composed a Pratishṭhā work in 1090 A.D.¹ at Banaras. (The manuscript of the work is reported to be in ASB). A Chola inscription mentions Jñānašiva of the Lakshādyāya-santāna of the Kollā-maṭha at Vārāṇasī².

2. LITERARY ACTIVITIES OF THESE ASCETICS

Inscriptions describe the literary activities of these ascetics. Vyomaśiva of the Ranod monastery seems to be a reputed scholar of outstanding importance. Inscription from Ranod mentions the composition of a work known after him³.

The Gwalior Ins.4 further gives us information that he, by his commentary, expounded the true nature of the real padārtha (a category of the Vaišeshika system) and also the unreal gross ignorance even as the Sun by his light reveals existing objects and dispels pitchy darkness. This commentary on the Vaišeshika work is no other than the Vyomavatī-tīkā of Vyomašiva on the Prašastapāda-bhāshya. The celebrated author Udayana mentions him with respect in his Kīraṇāvalī. He has also been quoted by Guṇaratna, Rājašekhara and Varddhamāna⁵.

Īśāna-śiva-guru-paddhati⁶ a volumnious work has been ascribed to Īśānaśiva, the rājaguru of Rājendra Chola. The Prāyaschitta-samuch-chaya, the Naimittika-kriyānusandhāna and the Pratishthā-darpaṇa were composed by Hṛidayaśiva of the Goraṭhikā Maṭha at Dhārā⁷, Brahma-śambhu of the Karkaroṇi branch⁸ and Vairochana, the disciple⁹ of Īśana-

V. 23. EI, I, P. 254 ff.

¹ ISG, Pt. II, Intr.

² Cholas, pt. II, 485.

श्लाघ्यं जन्म जगत्त्रयेपि दधतः शेषस्य तस्य क्षमा
 मस्य व्योमपदादिमन्त्ररचनाख्याताभिधानस्य च

⁴ मुनिसूर्येण निरस्तं टीकालोकेन येन लोकस्य । प्रकटयतेह पदार्थं सन्तमसच्च सन्तमसम् ॥ The verse has been quoted by Prof. Mirāshi (IHQ, 1950, p. 16). See also "Vyomašiva the Author of Vyomavatī" by Dasarath Sharma (IHQ, X, p. 165).

⁵ Indian Logic and Atomism, p. 32 aun.

⁶ A Study on Vāstuvidyā, preface, p. ii.

⁷ ISG. II, preface p. 1

⁸ Ibid, Part II, preface.

⁹ Ibid.

śiva respectively. The Malkapuram¹ Ins. of Rudradeva mentions the writing of the Somaśambhu-paddhati by Somaśambhu, the predecessor of Vāmaśambhu which is not available. The available Somaśambhu-paddhati² was composed in 1153 V.S.=1095 A.D. by another Somaśambhu who flourished in the line of Iśānaśiva.

3. PHILOSOPHY

We have already seen that the Vaiseshikas were Saivas while the Naiyāyikas belonged to the Pāsupata school. Literature discloses the existence of the Siddhānta-Vaiseshika branch of the Vaiseshika school.

A. Siddhānta-Vaiseshikas:—Apta-parīkshā (9th Century A.D.) and Yašastilaka³ (c. 966 A.D.) mention two sections of Vaišeshikas:—

- (a) The Siddhanta-Vaiseshikas and
- (b) The tārkika-Vaiseshikas.

The difference between these two sections of Vaiseshika philosophers are mainly four:—

- (i) Siddhānta-Vaišeshikas were theist. They believe in the existence of Maheśvara-Siva and also in the categories recognised in the Vaišeshika system while Tārkika-Vaiseshikas were atheist⁴.
- (ii) According to Saiddhāntikas salvation can be obtained by faith in Siva characterised by initiation into Saiva cult. while
- 1 नाम्ना निजेन सकलागमसिन्धुसेतुं यः पद्धति करुणया प्रतिमां बबन्ध ।

LL. 65-66.

JAHRS, IV, p. 157.

श्रीविक्रमास्यनृपकालसमुद्भवेषु
 पंचाशता त्रिसहितेषु शरच्छतेषु ।
 एकादशस्वमलशास्त्रमिदं समाप्तं

गृढस्य देशिकमतस्य सहस्रयुग्मम् ॥७॥

Somasambhu-paddhati, p. 1.

- ³ Vol. II, p. 269. Yasastilaka and Indian Culture, p. 184.
- यथैव हि महेश्वरस्य स्वरूपतः सत्वं वृद्धवैशेषिकैरिष्यते तथा पृथिव्यादिद्रव्याणां रूपादिगुणानामुत्क्षेपणादिकर्म्मणां सामान्यविशेषसमवायानां च प्रागभावादीनाम-पीष्यत एव

Āpta-parīkshā v.v. 59-67.

Yasastilaka and Indian Culture, p. 218.

tārkikas maintain that it results from the knowledge of categories.1

- (iii) Tārkikas hold that the salvation consists in the complete cessation of ignorance-pain due to the extirpation of attributes of soul while Siddhāntikas maintain that it brings blissful consciousness besides the annihilation of ignorance-pain.²
- (iv) Vyomasiva regards verbal testimony (sabda) also as a valid source of knowledge in addition to inference and perception but the orthodox section does not recognise sabda as independent source of knowledge³.

On the basis of inscriptions it may be demonstrated that these Siddhānta-Vaišeshikas were the followers of Saiva-siddhānta school and that these differences from the orthodox section arose from the acceptance of devotional doctrine as laid down in the āgamas by the Saiva-siddhānta school.

- B. Inscriptions and Siddhānta-Vaišeshikas:—These characteristic principles of Siddhānta-Vaišeshikas are obtained in inscriptions set up by Saiva-siddhānta scholars.
- (i) These inscriptions invariably begin with an invocation to Siva and other deities of Saiva pantheon. They reveal a full-fledged Saiva mythology and pantheon.
 - ¹ सकलिक्कलाप्तप्राप्तमन्त्रतन्त्रापेक्षदीक्षालक्षणाच्छ्रद्वामात्रानुसरणान्मोक्षः इति सैद्धान्त-वैशेषिकाः । Yasastilaka, Vol. II, p. 269.
 - वरधेन्धनानलवदुपरामो मोक्षः । Prašastapāda, p. 144. But in the Aptaparīkshā (under verse 11; see also Yaşastilaka and Indian Culture,
 p. 218) ज्ञानशिक्तस्तु निःकर्मणोपि कस्यचिन्न विरुध्यते चेतनात्मवादिभिः कैश्चिद्वैशेषिकसिद्धान्तमभ्युपगच्छद्भिर्मुक्तात्मन्यिप चेतनायाः प्रतिज्ञानात् ।
 That this was also the view of Saivas is known from Bhāskara who in his Bhāshya, 2-2-37 notes. पाशुपत-वैशेषिक-नैयायिक-कापालिकानामविशिष्टाः मुक्त्यवस्थायां पाषाणकल्पा आत्मानो भवन्तीति । सांख्यशैवयोश्च
 विशिष्टा आत्मानश्चैतन्यस्वभावास्तिष्ठन्तीति ।
 - 8 Manibhadra in his commentry on Shad-darsana-samuchchaya mentions this view of Vyomasiva:—
 यद्यपि औलूक्यशासने व्योमशिवाचार्योक्तानि त्रीणि प्रमाणानि तथा श्रीघरमतापेक्षया अत्र उभे एव निगदिते ।

- (ii) The Bilhari inscription¹ states that even "sacred knowledge and due discrimination "are dependent on the devotion to Siva". Austerities destroy the darkness of ignorance and set a person on the path of nirvāṇa² which would be obtained by bhakti-yoga.³
- (iii) Salvation is the greatest of pleasures and comes as a "downpour of nectar" in the form of bliss which could only be experienced.3
- (iv) The agamas are regarded as the most authoritative work. Worship is done in accordance with the agamas. This high position assigned to these revealed scriptures necessitated the recognition of sabda as an independent source of valid knowledge.4

Thus, the Śaiva Siddhānta school was affiliated to the Saiddhāntika section of Vaiśeshika philosophy. On the basis of literary evidence it seems that this school came into existence sometime before ninth century A.D. Vyomaśiva who differed from the earlier āchāryas in some of the principles noted above, flourished in the beginning of tenth century A.D. By the time of Somadeva Sūri (c. 966 A.D.) differences in two schools of the Vaiśeshikas were clearly crystallized and in the fourteenth century A.D. Jain writers made an unqualified statement that the Vaiśeshika school was devoted to Śiva worship. This would indicate the influence gradually exerted by the Śaiva school on the Vaiśeshika philosophy.

Inscriptions of these ascetics do not mention the fundamental philosophical concepts of the Siddhānta school. The First Baijnath Prašasti, however, contains metaphysical terms used in it. The inscription addresses Siva as Paśupati⁵ who cuts the bonds (pāśa) of persons devoted to him.

भवित नृपतिवंशे जन्म पृथ्वी च भोग्या श्रुतमुचितिवचारश्चारुरूपप्रभावः । समरविजयसम्पत्तस्य यो निःप्रपंचं चरणयुगलमूलं संश्रितः शंकरस्य ॥ EI, I, p. 261, V. 75.

² शिष्यस्तस्य शिखाशिवः शिखिसमी विभ्रत्तपस्तेजसा । दीपत्वं विनिपातितान्धतमसी निव्वाणमार्गे स्थितिः ॥ Chandrehe Ins. of Prabodhasiva, K.E. 724=973 A.D., MASI, XIII, p. 117 ff.

किमिह बहुभिरुक्तैर्नाय सर्वस्य हेतुर्भवतु भवति नित्यं भक्तियोगो ममैकः ।
 सकलसुखिवशेषाद्यत्र पीयूषवर्षः स्वयमनुभवगम्यो जायते त्वत्प्रसादात् ।।
 E.I., I., p. 261.

⁴ See note '5' above.

यद्यप्यहं पशुपते कुमतिद्र एव ॥१॥
 पाशच्छेदन कर्तर प्रणमतां मोहान्धकृपबृढल् ॥२॥ E. I., I p. 104 ff.

Pasu as anul staying in the body is also mentioned. Mala is said to have been destroyed by the sight of Siva.

4. YOGA

Yogic practices hold an important place in the agamic works. Inscriptions also betray influence in the Saiva-siddhanta school.

The Gurgi Ins. records that Praśanta-śiva had attained mastery over postures of sitting (jitāsana). His mind was devotedly fixed to the meditation of Siva inside his lotus-like heart (and therefore) he possessed inner satisfaction.³

Prabodhasiva lived on green leaves ($\side a ka$), roots of water-plants ($\side a luka$) and fruits such as $\side a malaka$, $priy\side a$ as well as roots.\(^4$ The Gurgi Ins. informs us of his building an abode for the siddhas on the banks of the river Sona "having entered which yogis who had exterminated anxieties caused by the impediments through the performance of vows, who were free from passions, who had attained success in meditation and whose mind was clear, acquire the position (fit) for obtaining emancipation.\(^5$

5. KRIYĀ

Excavation of water-reservoirs, construction of temples, installation of images, founding of monasteries and other architectural activities constitute the third section of the āgamas known as 'kriyā'.

- ¹ बहुदेहान्तरस्थाणु त्वमेव किल कथ्यसे ॥८॥ Ibid.
- ² मलादिहृदयाल्हादिदर्शनतो दिने दिने ॥८॥ Ibid.
- अासीनस्य जितासनस्य विजने हृत्पद्ममध्यस्थित स्थाणु-ध्यान-निलीन-निश्चलमनः संवेदितान्तर्म्मुदः ॥१५॥

MASI, XXIII, p. 128 ff.

- विचार्य निखिलागमान्विधिसमाधिबुद्धेश्वरः
 प्रियालफलमूलकामलशाकशालूकभुक् । MASI, XXIII, p. 117 ff.
- सिद्धस्थानमचीकरत् प्याप्यः शोणतीरोपरि ।
 यस्मिन् योगजुषः प्रविश्य नियमध्वस्तान्तरायाधयः
 शान्तः सिद्धसमाधयौ धु(ध्व)च्छ मतयो गच्छन्ति मुक्तेः पदम् ॥

MASI, XXIII, p. 117 ff.

In MASI Dr. Banerjee has corrected the last line as adhvamatayo gachchhantimuktehpadam but in EI, XXII, p. 127 he reads it as achchhamataya but adhvamatayo suits the context better adhvan is a technical term of Saiva-yoga.

Kriyā was a popular feature of the Saiva Siddhānta school. Inscriptions record the excavation of wells, $v\bar{a}p\bar{i}s^1$ and other water-reservoirs, founding of several mathas² and abodes of siddhas,³ the installation of Saiva images⁴ and similar activities by the Saiva ascetics of Dāhala region. The Malkāpuram⁵ Ins. describes the establishment of colleges, feedinghouses and hospitals by Viśveśvara-śiva of Golakī Matha.

6. CHARYA

Charyā consists of daily rituals, worship of images and yantras, celebration of festivals and similar activities.

A. Daily Rituals:—Fire-rituals with Saiva mantras were daily performed. Prabodhasiva is compared with Kumāra because he was as much versed "in pouring libations on high tongues of fire as Kumāra is in tending his bird-conveyance peacock." Mind of Gangādhara was purified by the most sacred texts of the Saiva doctrine in consequence of the oblations duly thrown in fire three times a day at the worship of the mooncrested god? Siva.

- अनुगीणंमथो सिन्धुप्रख्यं तडागमचीखनत्।
 प्रचुरसिललं कूपं चात्र प्रबोधशिवः शमी ।।१६।। MASI, XXIII, p. 117 ff.
 He re-excavated another well also which was originally dug by his preceptor (V. 18, Ibid).
 स खलु देवतायतनवान्वापीनिवेशः शुभः ।
 सोद्यानः प्रथते स्वकीत्विभवः साक्षादिवानश्वरः ।। EI, I, p. 354 ff.
- The wealth in the mathas is described in the Ranod Ins:

 स्फारैर्धान्यहिरण्यरत्निनवहैिन्नःशेषमन्तर्विह

 स्त्वंगत्तुगतुरंगमैर्मदभरोद्घूतैश्च गर्ड्जदंगजैः ।

 स्वस्थानस्य विशीर्णविद्वुतमठस्योद्दामलक्ष्मीभृतो

 भूभागास्तपसा पुनर्ज्ञवहचः संरेजिरे यस्य च ॥३०॥ Ibid.
- 3 MASI, XXIII, p. 122. V. 13.
- ⁵ JAHRS, IV, p. 147 ff. .
- उदग्रशिखितप्पंणप्रगुणितैकपाणिक्षमं
 कुमार इव सर्वदा परिहृतांगनासंगमः । MASI, XXIII, p. 117 ff.
- ⁷ सातत्यान्नित्यकृत्याहुतिभिद्भपचितौ चन्द्रमौलेस्त्रिकालं न्यस्ताभिर्यस्य शैवागममहितमहामन्त्रपूतान्तरस्य । V. 13, EI, II, p.

- B. Worship :- It was the most important activity under this category.
- (a) Procedure:—Inscriptions do not yield detailed information regarding it. The Bilhari Ins. 1 records that it was conducted in accordance with the agamic precepts. It further indicates that in the beginning, deity was bathed and then it was worshipped by offerings of flowers which was followed by the presentation of white garments, 2 garlands, sandal, elephants, horses etc. In the end hymns were recited and salutations were made.
- (b) Forms of Siva:—Out of the sixteen³ forms recognised in the Saiva-siddhanta, inscriptions mention Umā-maheśvara, Gangādhana⁴ and Nāṭyeśvara forms. Vyomaśiva had set up the images of Umā-maheśvara, Umā, Nāṭyeśvara and Vināyaka.⁵ Prabhāvaśiva, likewise, installed Umā, Umā-maheśvara, Shaḍānuna, Sarasvatī and Ganeśa.⁶

Nātyeśvara seems to be a popular form. Siva in this form has been invoked several times in inscriptions. It may, however, be stated that nowhere in inscriptions do we get any suggestion for the interpretation of five-fold activities (pañcha-kritya) of Iśvara.

C. Pantheon:—Inscriptions mention Gaṇapati,² Shaḍānana, Umā and Sarasvatī as important Śaiva deities.

निमज्ज्य यो रत्निनिधौ श्रीमान्सोमेश्वरं शनैः
 अभ्यच्च्यं कांचनैः पद्मैरथान्यत्तु न्यवेदयत् ॥६१॥
 सोमेश्वराभ्यच्चंनम् ॥

दत्वा यः करिवाजिशुभ्रवसनस्रक्चन्दनादीन्पुनः संसाराश्रमशान्तयेति विनतस्तुष्टाव तुष्टःप्रभुः ॥६२॥ ibid

* ISG. pt. IV, pp. 409-416.

सम्पूज्य देवमीशानिम्बभवैः स्वैर्यथोचितै
 यथागमं यथाशास्त्रं स्तोत्रं विहितवात्रुपः ॥७२॥ EI, I, 251 ff.

⁴ EI, I, p. 251, V. 1., MASI, XXIII, p. 117 ff, V. 1.

⁵ शिवयुग्ममुमादेवीं नाट्येश्वरिवनायकौ ॥४४॥ EI, I, pp. 354 ff.

यः प्रत्यतिष्ठिपदुमामुमया च मिश्रमीशं षडाननमथप्रथितोस्कीर्तिः ।
 प्रासादसिन्निहतदेवगृहेषु विद्वान् द्वारे तथा गणपति च सरस्वतीं च ॥१२॥

APPENDIX

THE RAJAGURUS OF KALACHURI KINGS

Like the succession of spiritual royal preceptors of the Cholas, there was an unbroken line of rājagurus of the Kalachuri kings running for more than two hundred and fifty years. The Malkāpuram Ins. of Kākātiya king Rudradeva S. 1183, the Rewa CP. of Trailokyamalladeva, the Jubblepur Ins. of Vimalaśiva, the Jubblepur (Kotawali) Ins. of Jayasimha and a few others furnish interesting details with regard to this line.

The Malkapuram Ins. states that the Kalachuri king Yuvarajadeva of Dahala region made a munificent grant of three lakhs of villages to Sadbhāva-sambhu who founded a monastery known as Golaki matha. R. C. Majumdar, Dr. D. C. Ganguli² and Dr. B. A. Saletore³ identify this Yuvarajādeva with Yuvarājadeva-Keyūravarsha I, the son of Mugdhatunga while Dr. D. C. Sircar takes him as Yuvarājadeva II, the younger son of Lakshmanaraja.4 The view of Dr. Sircar seems to be erroneous. The Jubblepur Ins. of Vimalasiva gives the succession of rajagurus. According to it, Purushasiva was the spiritual preceptor of Yasahkarna.5 The mutilated portion gives the names of the preceding generations of ascetics who filled the important role of the rajaguru but those of their royal disciples have been lost. The combined evidence of the Malkapuram and the Jubblepur inscriptions proves that Sadbhāva-śambhu flourished six generations before Purushasiva and, therefore, he must have been contemporary of Yuvarājadeva I who was the predecessor of Yasahkarna by six generations. As there is the corresponding succession of the rajagurus and their royal disciples the identification seems well-nigh certain.

Sadbhāvaśambhu on the other hand is same as Prabhāvaśiva of the Gurgi and Chandrehe inscriptions, because

(i) All facts recorded with regard to Sadbhāva-śambhu in the Malkāpuram Ins. are noted with relation to Prabhāvaśiva in the Gurgi and Chandrehe inscriptions. According to the Gurgi inscription it was Prabhāvaśiva who was made to accept

¹ History of Bengal, Vol. I, p. 684.

² Age of the Imperial Kanauja, p. 89.

³ Ancient Karnāţaka, I. p. 392.

⁴ JUPHS, 1952, pp. 227 ff.

⁵ EI, XXV, p. 311 ff. V. 17.

- the land-grant by Yuvarāja¹ I while the Chandrehe inscription states that Yuvarājadeva I established a monastery at an enormous cost for Prabhāvaśiva in the Dāhala region.²
- (ii) The use of synonyms of names is a noted characteristic of Indian epigraphy and has been observed in the case of other ascetics of this line also. Thus, Chūdāśiva of the Bilhari and the Gurgi inscriptions is written as Śikhāśiva in the inscription at Chandrehe. In the Malkāpuram inscription the change in name is due to the metrical exigency. The metre required a tagaṇa in the place and hence Prabhāva a jagaṇa has been changed to sadbhāva a tagaṇa.

After Sadbhāva-śambhu came Somaśambhu³ who was succeeded by Vāmaśambhu. The inscription notes that "the Kalachuri kings are still mentioned in inscriptions (praśasti) as meditating upon his feet" (charaṇārādhakāḥ).⁴ Seven kings⁵ of this region are styled in inscriptions

- तस्याखिलक्षितिपतिप्रणतोत्तमांगचूडामणिद्युतिचयाच्चितपादपीठः ।
 शिष्यो बभूव भुवनत्रयकीर्त्तंनीयः श्रीमत्प्रभावशिवनाम मुनिम्मंनीषी ॥६॥
 आनीय यं सहजवासनया नयज्ञः श्रीमुग्धतुंगतनयो युवराजदेवः ।
 सत्त्वोपकारभवदुत्तमकीर्तिहेतोरग्राहयन्मठमनन्तधनप्रतिष्ठम् ॥७॥
- ततो मधुमतीपतेः कृतमहातपस्संचयः
 प्रभावशिव इत्यभूत्सकलशैवचूडामणिः ।
 अनेकन्पवन्दितः स युवराजदेवेन
 यस्तपोधनपतिः कृतचरणपूतगोलग्निकः ॥५॥
- 3 The Malkapuram Ins. informs us that Somaasmbhu had composed a paddhati. Aufrecht therefore identifies this Somasambhu with his namesake whose paddhati has been found in manuscript form Ep. Rep. of the S. Circle, 1917, p. 126 but the identification is evidently wrong because the other Somasambhu was the disciple of S-siva (should be corrected as Sarvasiva) the rajaguru of the Chola kings. See ante. p. 36
- 4 अद्यापि कलचुरीशा यञ्चरणाराधकाः प्रशस्यन्ते ।
 the word prasasyante may mean "described in prasasti or inscriptions" and the word Charaṇārādhakāḥ has a clear reference to Vāmadeva-pādānudhyāta. According to Mahāmahopādhyāya Prof. V. V. Mirashi Vāmadeva was a predecessor of the Kalachuri kings (EI, XXVI) but contra Dr. D. C. Sircar (JUPHS, 1952, p. 227) The evidence in favour of Dr. Sircar's view is rather strong.

⁵ See ante p. 36

as Vāmadevapādānudhyāta. Jonarāja in his commentary on the Prithvīrāja-Vijaya¹ furnishes the interesting information that the Kalachuri king Sāhasika dedicated-his whole kingdom to his preceptor the ascetic Vāmadeva and started to conquer the whole earth. The king Sāhasika, however, does not figure in the Kalachuri genealogy. Dr. D. C. Sircar² identifies him with Gāngeyadeva because he assumed the title of Vikramāditya and the celebrated Vikramāditya was known as Sāhasānka—Sāhasika. Secondly, Vāmadeva is third from Sadbhāvasambhu who, according to Sircar, was a contemporary of Yuvarājadeva II and therefore Gāngeyadeva, the grandson of Yuvarāja II should have been a contemporary of Vāmadeva.

But Vāmadeva flourished four generations before Purushasiva the preceptor of the king Yasahkarna and therefore he can in no way be contemporary of Yasahkarna's grandfather Gangeyadeva. The mutilated portion of the Jubblepur Ins. of Vimalasiva mentions the name of Vastuśiva, the preceptor's preceptor of Purushaśiva who was probably the rājaguru of Gangeyadeva. In the succession as known from inscriptions, Vāmašiva was contemporary of Yuvarājadeva II and hence it was he who dedicated his kingdom to Vāmasiva. The Kalachuri inscriptions also indicate the samething. The Bilhari Ins. repeatedly states that Yuvarājadeva II worshipped Siva by his vaibhava i.e. kingship or wealth. It also quotes a stotra composed by Yuvarājadeva II in which he mentions the renunciation of all material prosperity and pleasure in favour of bhaktiyoga. The stotra seems to be a hymn of dedication. The inscription states that after worshipping3 Siva by his wealth he composed the following hymn4:-

"For those who are swayed by passion and whose minds are given up to sensual pleasure, this wealth becomes a cause of intoxication, Oh! granter of boons."

"Birth in a princely family, sovereignty over the earth, sacred knowledge, due discrimination, beautiful form, and victory in battle come to him who takes refuge with holy feet of Śańkara.

¹ See ante p. 36

² JUPHS, 1951-1952, p. 227-232.

सम्पूज्य देवमीशानिम्बभवैः स्वैर्यथोचितैः ।
 यथागमं यथाशास्त्रं स्तोत्रिम्बिह्तवात्रृपः ॥७२॥

VV. 73-75.

"What is the use of making many words? Let there be, Oh lord! only one thing for me, and that is, firm devotion in you which is the source of all other things (enumerated above) and may the greatest of all pleasures—the shower of nectar which could only be experienced (and not expressed) through thy favour fall upon me".

This hymn very strongly suggests that Yuvarāja II dedicated his empire to lord Šiva, I would like, therefore, to identify Sāhasika with Yuvarājadeva II.

The Malkapuram Inscription leaves the names of four rajagurus who flourished after Vāmašambhu and continues its narration from Saktiśiva. The Jubblepur Stone Ins. of Vimalasiva fortunately supplies the missing link. Vimalasiva and then Vastusiva flourished in succession. The name of the disciple of Vastusiva is lost in the Jubblepur inscription. It was probably Rudrasiva. The line of succession indicates that he must have been rājaguru during the period of Lakshmīkarna. The A. S. B. CP2 of Govindachandra mentions Rudrasiva as the rajaguru of Yasahkarna but the Jubblepur inscription explicitly notes that Purushasiva was the spiritual preceptor of Yasahkarna. It seems that Rudrasiva was the rajaguru during early period of Yasaskarna and later on Purushasiva succeeded him on the post. Thus, Rudrasiva might have been the rajaguru during the period of Lakshmikarna and probably it was the name lost in the mutilated portion of the Jubblepur Inscription. Ascetics in the next three lines are mentioned both in the Malkapuram and the Jubblepur inscriptions. Saktisiva is mentioned in connection with Gayākarna while Kīrttiśiva is said to have contributed to the prosperity of Narasimha. The next ascetic Vimalasiva s mentioned in the Jubblepur (Kotawali) Ins. of Jayasimhadeva and the Rewa CP. of Trailokyamalladeva. He was the rajaguru during the rule of Jayasimha The Rewa CP. of Trailokyamalla records Santasiva the Kali incarnation of Durvāsā and his younger brother (co-disciple) Nādaśiva as disciples of Vimalaśiva. The latter had executed a mortgage deed on behalf of the former in which he pledged a village. They are not, however, mentioned in the Malkapuram Ins. which records the ascetic Dharmasiva as the disciple of Vimalasiva. His disciple Visvesvarasiva established an extensive monastery at Malkapuram in Mysore and initiated the king Ganapati in this faith.

¹ किमिह वहुभिरुक्तैर्नाथ सर्व्वस्य हेतुर्भवित भवतु नित्यं भिक्तयोगो मभैकः । सकलमुखिवशेषाद्यत्रपीयूषवर्षः स्वयमनुभवगम्यो जायते त्वत्प्रसादात् ॥७०॥ The translation given above differs from Kielhorn's.

^{*} JASB, XXXI, pp. 123 ff.

Thus, there was a line of rājagurus running from Yuvarājadeva II to the end of the Kalachuri dynasty. It may be shown as follows:—

Inscriptions	Ascetics Guhavasī	Kings	Ramerks
1	Sadbhāva-śambhu	Prabhāva-śiva of Chandrehe and Gurgi Ins.
1	Somasambhu	Ins.
1	Vāmaśambhu	[Yuvarājadeva II]
2	Vimalasiva	[Kokalla II]
2	Vāstušiva	[Gāṅgeyadeva]
2+3	[Rudra]śiva	[Lakshmīkarņa and Yaśaḥkarṇa]
2	Purusha-śiva	Yasahkarna
1+2	Šakti-šiva	Gayākarņa
1+2	Kirttiśiva	Narasimha
1+2+4+5	Vimalasiva	Jayasimha
	Sāntasiva-Nādasiva 5	Dharmasiva 1 1 Visvesvara

No. of Inscriptions :-

- The Maikāpuram Ins. of the Kākatīya king Rudradeva, JAHRS, IV, pp. 147 ff.
- 2. The Jubblepur Ins. of Vimalasiva, EI, XXV, p. 309ff.
- 3. The ASB. CP. of Govindachandra, JASB, XXXI, pp. 123ff.
- 4. The Jubblepur (Kotawali Ins.) of Jayasimha, EI, XXI, p. 95.
- 5. The Rewa CP. of Trailokyamalla, EI, XXV, p. 1ff.

VIII. MISRA SCHOOL: THE CULT OF THE PENTAD

The tendency of rapprochement in orthodox religious sphere resulted in pañchadevopāsanā i.e. the worship of five deities as advocated by the Smārtas. The movement was started much before our period, but it could take a definite form only towards its conclusion in 11th century A.D.

The Smarta cult of the Pentad was initiated by the agamicas—Saivas as well as Vaishnavas. The Saiva Pentad had different varieties and they came into vogue by 11th-12th century A.D.

Miśra Śaiva School: The Smārta Cult of the Pentad: Its Evolution:

The worship of Siva with Sun, Šakti (mother-goddess), Gaņeśa and Vishņu was performed in the Miśra Pāśupata School.¹ This is same as śmārta Pañchadevopāsanā.

The later smārta treatises prescribe the daily worship of these Five Deities for a householder.² It is some. mes stated that the cult in this form was popularised by the advaita teacher Sāmkara but it is extremely doubtful.³

The first stage in the development of the pentad cult was the evolution of trinity composed by Brahmā, Vishņu and Šiva.

A. The Trinity (Trideva) :-

(a) Association of Siva and Vishņu:—In the beginning we find the association of two great gods—Siva and Vishņu who came to be worshipped together. A late inscription from Kāmarūpa, describing the king as a devout worshipper of both Siva and Vishņu seems to have preserved an echo of earlier times.³ A wish has been expressed in a Chamba inscription that the dedicator of a fountain-slab (dvārībandha) may attain the regions of both Siva and Vishņu.⁴ The Bhandaka Cp. of Krishņarāja S. 674=772 A.D. is the earliest in the series to invoke Siva and Vishņu in a single verse by way of benediction.⁵ The Nagpur Ins. of V. S 1161=1104 A.D. addresses

र्वि शम्भुं तथा शक्ति विघ्नेशं च जनादँनम् । यजन्ति समभावेन, मिश्रपाश्पतं हि तत् ।।

अादित्यमम्बिकां विष्णुं गणनाथं महेश्वरम् । पंचयज्ञपरो नित्यं गृहस्थः पञ्च पूजयेत् ॥

Smṛti-muktāphala, p. 384.

³ History of Dharma-sāstra II, II, p. 717.

EI, II, p. 353, L. 48.
 शिवलोकार्थे विष्णुपरलोकआरघाणे—

Antiquities of Chamba, p. 223.

⁵ EI. XIV, p. 121.

Siva and Vishnu together in an interesting way. "Siva and Vishnu form a peculiar combination", the inscription, says, "as they are passionless and passionate, clad in tigerskin and costly garments, garlanded with the strings of human skulls and flower-wreaths, decked with serpents and pearl-strings and smeared with ashes and anointed with perfumes." The Madhainagar Cp. of Lakshmanasena prays "Siva who sustained Hari in his most peculiar body". 2

Syncretic form composed by combining Siva and Vishnu in one image called Harihara or Krishna-Samkara also indicates the fusion. Several such images have been found.

A further development of this Harihara form is the Pradyumneśvara motif in which Śiva, Pārvatī, Lakshmī and Nārāyaṇa are carved on both the sides of statue to combine (a) Harihara (b) Laksmīnārāyāṇa and (c) Umā-Maheśvara forms. We know that such a syncretic image was installed in the sanctum of the Pradyumneśvara temple built by Vijayasena of Bengal.³

- (b) Vishnu and Brahmā:—The Kachhapaghāṭa king Vīrasimha is styled as a devout worshipper of Vishnu and a great Brahmānya.4 This association is attested by a peculiar image representing Brahmā and Vishnu together having one body.5
- (c) Siva and Brahmā:—Similarly, titles like parama-brahmanya⁶ parama-māheśvara i.e. a devout worshipper of both Siva and Brahmā, parama-māheśvara-mahā-brahmanya⁷ and parama-māheśvareti-brahmanyah⁸ indicate worshippers of Siva and Brahmā both. The Rewa Ins. of Malaya-
 - वैराग्यं च सरागतां च नृशिरोमालां च माल्यानि च व्याश्रानेकपचम्मणी च वसनं चाहीं च हारादि च। यद्भूति च विलेपनं च भजते भीम च भव्यं च यद् तिद्श्याद्र्यमुमारमारमणयोर्मुक्ति च भृक्ति च वः। EI., 11, P. 183 ff.
 - 2 Inscriptions of Bengal, III, p.
 - 3 "Pradyumnesvara Motif in Sena period" JASB, 1956, IB, III, p. 46 V. 2
 - ⁴ JAOS. VI, pp. 542-47; See also, Pandukesvara CP. of Lalita Sundadeva A. D. 853, IA, XXV, 178.
 - ⁶ History of Bengal, I, P. 48, pl, I.
 - 6 Sungala CP. of Vidagdha A. C. P. 166.
 - Rewah CP. Ins. of the Maharanaka Kirtivarman, IA, XVII, p. 225 ff.
 - 8 Nirmand CP. Ins. of Maharanka Maharaja Samudrasena 6 II, III. p. 286 ff.

simha¹ reveals the existence of a sect which was devoted to worship of Siva and Brahmā together. Some Chedi inscriptions² salute Brahmā in the beginning immediately followed by an invocation to Siva while others invoke Siva in the form of Brahmā as the creator of the universe and the reciter of the Vedas.³ This will corroborate the conclusion stated above.

(d) Brahmā-Vishņu and Śiva:—The Karitalai Ins. of Lakshmaṇarāja K. S. 593 opens with an invocation to Brahmā, Vishņu and Śiva. The Kulait Cp. Ins. of Somanarman describes the King Śālavahan as a devout worshipper of Śiva, Vishņu and Brahmā. The Māndhātā Cp. of Devapāla Paramara V. S. 1255 invokes the trinity as Kaiśa i.e. Brahmā-prajāpati, Śiva and Vishņu combined. Kaiśa (Ka=Brahmā; E=Visņu and Iśa=Śiva) has been described as "resembling the waterlily, the blackbee, and the Kāśa grass; having respectively for weapons amenacing utterance (humkāra), a discus and the pināka; moving on a bird (swan), a bird (garuḍa) and bull and residing in a lotus, water and mountain". Such combined images in the Harihara-pitāmaha, Dattātreya and Kāiśa forms are discovered in large numbers.

Firstly, adjectives in singular bāahmaṇaśānavādinā etc., cannot qualify the noun māṇavaka in plural and secondly there cannot be any gap between Brahmaṇā Śāna because the eight letters of anushtubh are already complete. I would therefore, correct the verse as:—

ब्रह्मणा (णे) शानवादिना वेदतत्पा(त्वा)र्थयोगिना । निस्तीर्ण्णानि पाषण्डानि यत्र माणवकर (केना)पि ॥

The phrase 'Brahmnesānavādin' i. e. a follower of the sect devoted to Brahmā and Išāna (Śiva).

- ² EI, II, pp. 1-7.
- ³ IA, XVIII, p. 210.
- 4 ओं नमोस्तु द्रहिणोपेन्द्ररुद्रेम्यः ।
- ⁵ AC. p. 184.
- कैशः कञ्जालिकाशाभा हुँकार।रिपिनािकनः।
 विविगोगतयो दद्युः संवोम्बु (जाम्बु) नगौकसः।। V. 3. I.A., XX, 310
- ⁷ Kaiša is identical with the Hariharapitāmaha form of the Rūpamanḍana but is different from Hariharapitāmaha form described in EHI, I, I, pp. 252-53.

¹ The verse transcribed by Sri R. D. Banerji is as ब्रह्मणा × शौनवादिना धेदतपावार्थयोगिना । निस्तीर्ण्णानि पाषण्डानि यत्र माणवकरैपि ॥ V. 32.

The temple with three sancta for the trinity-Siva, Vishņu and Brahmā having one mandapa like one at Kesari in Gujrata¹ displays the close association of three gods. The inscriptions mention the construction of similar temples in other parts of the country.²

- (e) Sūrya, Brahmā and Vishņu formed another triad. The copper plates of Viśvarūpasena who was a devout worshipper of Sūrya open with a salutation to Śri-Nārāyaṇa followed by an invocation to Sūrya. It was authenticated by Sadāśivamudrā.³ The Gahaḍavāla inscriptions record the worship of this triad at the ceremony of gifts.⁴ A temple for the joint-worship of Śamkara, Vishņu and Bhāskara existed at Kargudri in Deccan.⁵
- B. The quadrumvarate:—The inclusion of Sūrya in the trinity formed this quadrumvarate. Images combining Siva, Vishnu, Brahmā and Sūrya in one body have been found at Kiradu, Pavagarh, Khajuraho, Gujarat, Kālañjara, 10 and elsewhere. 11 But it may be noted that no temple in India dedicated to the worship of these four deities together have been found.

Ancient temples which are termed as Pañchāyatana really group the shrines for four gods—Śiva, Vishņu, Śakti and Sūrya. The Rewa Ins. of Vappullaka records the construction of a Śiva-pañchāyatana form of

¹ Arch. of Guj, p. 31.

² The Salotgi Pillar Ins. (c) discloses the existence of a temple for Trayipurusha at the agrahāra of Pavithage. (SI., IV., p. 57)

⁸ IB. III, pp, 133-134.

मूर्य्यभट्टारकं संपूज्य भगवन्तं महेश्वरमभ्यर्च्यं विश्वाधारं वासुदेवं समाराध्य । EI., II, p. 359 ff.

⁵ IA, X, p. 25.

⁶ ASIWC., 1907-08, p. 41.

⁷ ASIWC., 1912 p. 48.

This has been termed as Harihara-Hiranyagarbha in Aparājita-Prichchhā p., 546. Išāna-šiva-guru-paddhati, III, 27-30 nrmes it Sadāšiva. It is regarded as a form of Sūrya in Mark. P. CIX, V. 71. See also JISOA, XVI, p. 87. At Khajuraho several such images have been found e. g. on the Eastern wall of the S. E. Subsidiary Shrine in the Lakshmana temple, and in Duladeo temple (see Hindu Temples II, pI. VI).

⁹ Lamboji Mata temple at Deimal, Arch. Guj. p. 163.

¹⁰ Near Nilankarantha temple at Kalanjara Fort.

¹¹ H. Krishna Sastzi, "South Indian Gods and Goddesses" fig. 144.

temple in which four shrines were built for four gods on the sides.¹ The record, however, is mutilated and gives the name of Vishnu alone who was installed in a subsidiary shrine as Lakshmī-nārāyaṇa. The Brahmeśvara temple Ins. of Kolāvatī likewise mentions the construction of four subsidiary shrines by the side of the main temple.² It however does not describe the gods in subsidiary shrines.

Panchāyatana temples of early medieval period have been found at Osia,³ Khajuraho,⁴ Bhuvaneśvara⁵ and Kashmira. The Visnu-Panchāyatana temples at Khajuraho and Osia have Siva, Sakti, Sūrya and Vishņu in the four subsidiary shrines grouped around the main shrine. Kashmira temple belonged to another category.

Thus this was another form of quadrumvarate formed by the substitution of Brahmā by Šakti.

C. Pañchadeva:—The Kilait Cp. of Somavarman in the middle of the eleventh century A.D. invokes five deities—Brahmā, Gaṇapati, Vishṇu, Sakti and Siva.⁶ But this pentad is not of the Smārta variety as Sūrya has been substituted here by Brahmā.

पंचायतनं शिवस्य L. 18.
 पाश्वें देवकुळी-चतुष्टययुतस्तासुकमाद्देवताः ।
 ईशाने......य लक्ष्मी संभारासना ।

LI. 14 and 15 MASI. XXIII, p. 180 ff.

The side temples of the different gods were situated on the four sides in a definite order—Kramād. The concluding portion of the mutilated line is Lakshmi-Sambhārāsanā which would indicate that one of the four at least was Viṣṇu.

१ एकाम्रे सिद्धतीर्थे चतुरमरकुली चारशालासमेतः कोलावत्या तयेषः क्षितिमुकुटनिभः कारितः कीत्तिराजः ॥

V. 12. JASB, 1838, p, 577-62.

- 3 ASI. AR., 190.
- 4 It is stated on the basis of personal study of the temples.
- ⁵ Antiquities of Orissa, pp. 58-89; Orissa & Her Remains N. N. Ganguli, pp. 33-42.
- ⁶ जयित भुवनकारणं स्वयम्भूजंयित पुरन्दरनन्दनो मुरारिः । जयित गिरिसुतानिरुद्धदेहो दुरितापहरोहरूच देवः ।। A.C., p. 1S4 "Girisutā" in second line may be construed (i) with niruddhadeva which would mean Siva whose body has been appropriated by the daughter of the mountain or (ii) separately to mean that "the goddess Pārvati be victorious along with Siva who has controlled his senses (lit body)". Any way the sense would be that Pārvatī and Siva be victorious either separately or in the composite form.

The evidence for the Smarta group of the five deities comes from the lingas of 11th century A.D. representing the four sectarian deities—Vishņu, Sakti, Gaņeśa and Sūrya on four sides.¹ Similarly, the miniature shrines² representing these five sectarian deities in sancta and around furnish the testimony for the prevalence of this cult in early and late mediaeval period.

It may, therefore, be concluded that the cult of the five deities as envisaged by the Smārtas came into vogue by 11th century A.D. and that it indicates the rapprochement of the Vedic and Āgamic tendencies. The views that pañca-devopāsanā was introduced by Sāmkarācārya does not seem to be right.

A. Lākulīša Pañchadeva:—Besides this Smārta variety, there were several Āgamīc forms of Śaiva Pañchadeva group. Four disciples of Lakulīša i.e., Kuśika, Gārgya, Maitreya and Kāruka along with Patañjali formed one group. This variety was transported to Indonesia where it survived for a very long time although literature and epigraphy in India do not contain any reference to it. The Cintrā Prašasti records another form. Gaṇḍa Tripurāntaka, a Pāśupata of Lākulīša school, constructed a temple of Śiva surrounded by five sanctuaries of Goraksha, Bhairava, Āñjaneya (Hanumān), Sarasvatī and Vināyaka (Gaṇeśa). The epigraph explicitly describes it as pañchāyatana (temples for a group of Five Gods). Both these varieties are of the Lākulīša Pāśupata school.

B. Siddhānta Pañchadeva:—The Śaiva Siddhānta ascetic Prabodhaśiva, on the other hand, set up five deities around the sanctum. They were Śiva, Śakti, Kārttikeya, Sarasvatī and Ganeśa. As the daily worship of these deities have been enjoined upon devotees in the *Iśāna-śiva-Guru-*Paddhati, it seems that this form of Pañchadeva was accepted in the Siddhānta school.

¹ Introducing India, p. 20

² Development of Hindu conography, (Second Edition) p. 545.

³ HBD., I, 406n.

⁴ गोरक्षकं भैरवमाञ्जनेयं सरस्वतीं सिद्धिविनायकञ्च । चकार पञ्चायतनान्तराले बालेन्द्रमौलिस्थितिमानसो यः ॥ EI., I, p. 284.

यः प्रत्यतिष्ठिपदुमामुमया च मिश्रमीशं षडाननमथ प्रथितोक्कीर्तिः ।
 प्रासादसिन्निहित्देवगृहेषु विद्वान् द्वारे तथा गणपितञ्च सरस्वतीञ्च ॥

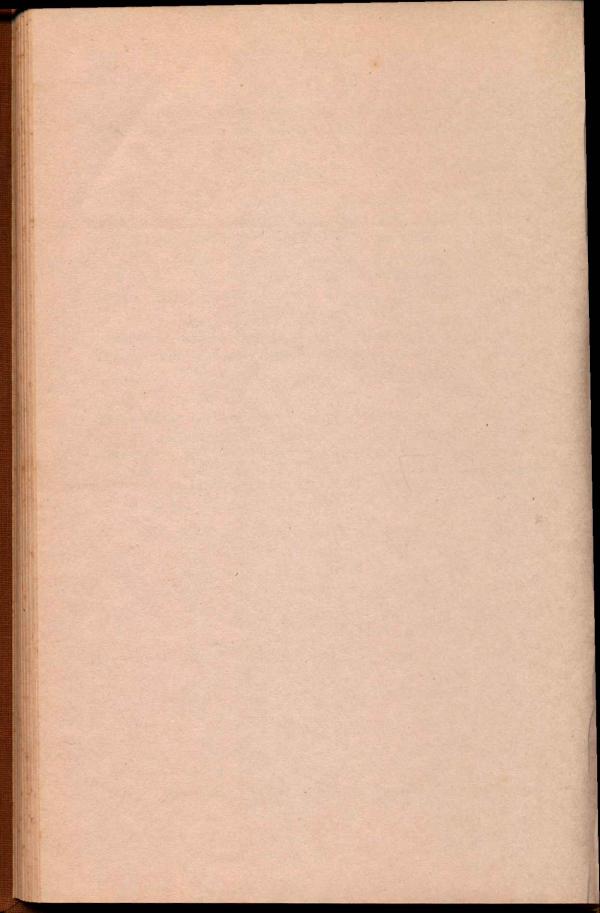

References to Saiva Pañchāyatana occur in the Brahmeśvara temple Inscription and the Koni Inscription of Kalachuri Prithvīdeva II K. E. 900¹ but subsidiary deities installed therein have not been specifically mentioned.

IX CONCLUSION

Inscriptions disclose three Saiva movements. The earliest movement was started by Śrīkaṇṭha who founded the Pāśupata schools centuries before Christian era. Soma a little later started at Prabhāsa two schools—(i) the school of logic known as naya-soma and (ii) the Śaiva devotional school called Soma-siddhānta. The association of schools of logic with Śaiva devotional sects is perceived still later. The Pāśupatas belonged to the Nyāya while the Śaiva were Vaiśeshikas.

Lakulīsā initiated the second movement which became in due course very influential. Inscriptions mention several important centres of this school during this period. Several branches sprung from them, Ananta section of the Panchārthikas is specially noteworthy.

Guhāvāsī, just before this period originated a very powerful and vigorous movement which spread to the Punjab, Vārāṇasī, Dāhala province, Mālavā, Central India and Rajputānā. It sent its branches to Deccan, Tamil region and Andhra area.

GENERAL INDEX

A Study on Vāstuvidyā, 32n	Ashtapushpikā, 17 ² , 18 ⁸
Abhinavagupta, 8, 10	Ashṭatanu (eight forms), 178 18
Abhisheka, 12, 12	Assam, 1
Achalagadha, 2	Atharvaśīrshopanishad, 15n
Acharya, 6n 9n; -s, 22, 31, 42;	Atmasamarpana, 7
—bhoga, 38	Avadhūta, 26°;—8, 26
Adhvan, 43	Avanivarmman, 33 ² , 33n ²
Adisūtra, 12	Avanti, 13, 33n 34.
Advaita teacher, 11	Avantivarmman, 1, 322, 33, 33n4, 34
Agama, 5n, 8, 11;-2, 41, 42°, 43	Bagchi, 6n, 7, 12, 26n
Āgama Prāmānya, 3, 3n3	Banaras, 39
Agamic, 22, 51;—forms, 562;	Banerji, R. D., 53n
-precepts, 45;—tendencies 56;	Bāṇa, 18
—works, 3, 43	Bengal, 1, 52
Age of the Imperial Unity, 46n	Bhairava, 42, 343, 56
Aghora, 18;—deva 32;	Bhaktiyoga, 42, 48
Aghoraghanta, 19n	Bhandarkar, D. R., 9, 9n
Aghora Siva, 5,	Bhandarkar, R. G., 4n, 7, 9, 9n,
Akshapāda, 13n, 244	10, 19n, 20, 20n, 21n,
Akulavīratantra, 34	Bhartrivadha Chahamana, 1
Alhanadevī, 19n	Bhāskara, 14n, 54
Allața, 27	Bhāshyachandra, 23
Allorā, 37	Bhāva, 17, 19 ²
Alapa, 31	Bhavabrahma, 12, 15, 16, 19n
Amarddaka 304;—branch, 30;	Bhāvodyota, 16, 19n
—maṭha, 30 ⁵ , 31 ² ;	Bhāvarakta, 19n, 27
—tīrthanātha, 30, 31°	Bhāva Sarvajna, 10°, 14
Amaresvara Temple, 29	Bhāvateja, 12, 15, 17, 19n
Ambhoja Sambhu, 35	Bhāva Vālmīki, 19n
Ananta, 11, 11n, 182, 18n, 28;	Bhavavrata, 21
—gochara, 11n; —gotra, 11 ⁵ ,	Bhedābheda school, 22
12 ² , 13, 28—gotras, 19, 19n;	Bhikshāmaṭha, 38
—school, 162;—section, 57	Bhikshānaṭa form, 298
Ānandagiri, 4	Bhīma II, 13, 23, 25°
Ancient Karnataka, 46n	Bhīma Bhūpa, 35
Andhra, 2;—area, 57	Bhoja (Paramara), 19, 20
Anjaneya, 56	Bilhari, 35
Antiquities of Chamba, 51n	Brahma, 4, 28, 51, 52 ⁵ 53 ⁵ 53n,
Anu, 43	54 ⁸ 55 ²
Āptaparīkshā 40, 40n, 41n	Brahmane Śāna, 53n ;-Vadin,
Aparājitaprehehhā, 54n	53n ²
Archæology of Gujrat, 54n	Brahmanya, 52
Aryadeśa, 38	Brahma Prajāpti, 53
Arhat, 4n	Brahma Sambhu, 35, 39
Ashţamūrti, 18	Brahma Sūtra, 3n
	2, 4, 1, 1, 2, 1, 2, 1

Brahmesvara temple, 55, 57 Dharma Siva, 31, 35, 37, 49, 50 Brihadyāmala, 5 Dīkshā, 122, ;-guru, 26 Buddhist Bhikshu, 30n Dualist Saiva School, 302 Buddhist god, 26 Dualist-non-dualist school, 30 Central India, 2, 35, 57 Dukkhānta, 14, 17 Chedi, 1, 22; -inscriptions, 53; Dūlādeo temple, 54n king, 1;—records, 2 Durvāsā, 30, 312, 37n, 49; Chāhamana Vigrahapāla, 27 -Amarddaka, 29 Chālukyas, 33n;—(eastern) 28n; —line, 30, 31 -dynasty, 33; kings 28, 33n Dvāribandh, 51 Chandakausika 20 E—Vishnu, 53 Chandapala 21 Effect (kārya), 14 Chandella, 1; -ruler, 37 Eight forms (of Siva), 173, 18 Chanderi-Pratihara dynesty, 2. 35 Enlightenment (bodha), 17 Chandradeva, In Five deities, 51, 563;—sectarian Chandragupta II, 92 deities, 56 Chandra Sekhara Mūrti, 252 Four sectarian deities, 56 Chandrehe, 35, 36n Gaganasiva, 312 Chāpala gotra, 138 Gahadavāla, 1, 54 Chāpalīya gotra, 19n Gahanādhipa, 28 Charya, 442 Gahanesa, 28 Chinese sources, 25 Gahanīnātha, 28 Chinese Text on Logic, 24 Gana, 19 Chinese writers, 25 Ganakārikā, 7n, 10, 14, 14n Cholas, 37n, 39n, 46 Ganapati, 32, 37, 45, 50, 55 Chola Country, 5, 37 Ganda, 19 Chola court, 37 Ganda Tripuranataka, 10, 56 Chola kings, 37, 47n Ganesa, 45, 51, 56⁸ Chola land, 38 Gangā, 38 Chola rule, 37 Gangādhara, 44, 45 Chūdā Siva, 36, 472 Gāngeyadeva, 37, 484, 50 Dahala, 2, 25; -mandala, 36; Ganguli, D. C., 46 -province, 57; -region, 30, Gārgya, 8, 10, 11;—brancha, 19; 38, 44, 46, 47 gotra, 10; lineage, 10; Daily ritual, 44, -school, 19 Darsana-Kanikā-Saingraha, 23 Gaudadeśa, 382 Dāruvana, 29°, Gautama Sūtras, 25 Dasaratha Sharma, 39n Gorathikā matha, 39 Dattalapendra Srīmāra, 31 Garuda, 53 Dattātreya, 53 Gayādatunga, 1n Gayakarna, 37, 49, 50 Deccan, 34, 35², 54, 57 Golakī matha, 31, 324, 38, 44, 46 Delmal, 54 Gondopharnese, 21 Deva, 21; Goraksha, 6, 182, 262, 28, 56 Devavrata, 21 Devapāla Paramāra, 1, 53 Govinda Chandra, 1n, 49, 50n Devavarmman, 1n Gotra, 102, 11n Guhāvāsī, 2, 28, 29°, 30°, 31°, 50, Development of Hindu Iconography, 57 ;—line, 30 Dhārā, 39 Guhya Sūtra, 122 Gujrat, 25, 542, Dharma, 20n

Gunaratna, 13, 13n, 39 Gupta characters, 12 Gurgī, 35, 36 Guru, 5, 39 Gwalior Rajya ke Abhilekha, 35nº H. Ui, 24n Halayudha stotra,29 Handiqui, 20n, 28n Hari, 52 Haribhadra Sūri, 13, 10, 13, 15n Haridatta Süri 4n Harihara, 52 Harihara-Hīranyagarbha, 54 Harihara-Pitāmaha, 53, 53n Harirāja Pratihāra, 35 Harischandra, 1n Harjaravarmmā, 1 Harsha, 17 Harsha-charita, 18, 18n Harsha Mt., 27 Hīlālī (Golakī matha) 32 Hindu Temples, 54n History of Bengal 46n, 52n History of Indian Logic 24n Hiuen Tsiang, 15n, 34 Hridayasiva, 34, 39 Hultzch, 30n Ichchhā, 14, 14n Indian Logic and Atomism, 39n, Indonesia, 56; Indonesian tradition, 9n Inscriptions of Bengal, 5, 2n Inscriptions of Kamboj, 12n, 17n, Introducing India, 56n Iśa-Siva, 53 Isāna, 17, 18, 53n, ıśānaśiva, 31, 32n, 37, 38, 392 402, Iśāna Siyaguru, 38 Isāna Sivagurudevapaddhati, 3n, 17, 23, 39, 54n, 56 Ishta, 16 Isvara, 45 Iśvarā (queen), 34 Isvaranāga, 342, 35 Jagaddhara, 21 Jain monk, 20n Jalandhara, 34 Jatāmukuta, 17

Jatavarmman Tribhuvana Chakravartin, Vīra Paņdyadeva, 32 Jātis, 9, 11 Jayachandra, 268 Jayadeva, 17, 17n Jayanta, 13n Jayaratha, 5n, 11n, 12, 272, 27n, 52²;—Yāmala, 26 Jaya Sithha, 1n, 36, 36n, 37, 46,49, 50, 50n Jayasimhadeva, 49 Jomadeva, 26 Jonarāja, 36, 48 Jishnugupta, 19, 23 Inanakarika, 6n Jñānāmrtāchārya, 32° Jñānayoga, 12 Iñanasiva, 39 Jyeshtarāsi, 19n Ka—Brahma, 53 Kachchhapaghāta king, 52 Kadawaha, 32, 35 Kailāśa, 34 Kaiśa, 53, 53n Kākātīya king, 332, 35, 37, 57, 50n Kalachuri king, 35, 36, 45, 48;— & 352, 36, 45, 47, 47n;— Prithvideva 57; dynasty, 35, 36, 37, 50, ; genealogy, 45 Kalamukha, 4;—s. 4n, 19n, 20, 21, 31, 22n—ascetics, 11, 28², Kālānana, 3, 4n, 10, 19, 22n; s. 10³, 20, 21. Kalanjara, 54; - Fort, 54n Kali age, 30 Kali incarnation, 49 Kāmarūpa, 51 Kaṇāda, 13n3, 24, 24, 24, 31n Kāñchī, 38 Kapāla, 19n, 20, 20n Kapāla Kundalā, 19n Kapāleśvara, 21, —form of Siva, 23;—temple, 23; Kāpāli, 21 Kāpālika, 3, 4, 4n, 19n, 20n8, 213, 22, 22n; -s. 3n, 4n, 194, 213, 223, 22n, 232, 252; -- ascetics, 21 ;—faith, 223, 25 ;—school,

19, 21, 222; -- sect, 42 vrata, 212 Kapālin, 20 Karakaroni, 34, 35², 39 Karanjakheta santati, 31 Karhat, 31;—area, 31 Kāravana, 7 Kāravana māhātmya 7 Kargudi, 54 Karmkriyā khanda, 38, 38n Karņātaka, 31 Karpūra-manjarī, 19 Kārtikarāsī, 10, 19n Kārtikeya, 56 Kāruka, 3, 102, 56; -&. 102; siddhānta, 10 Karunā, 15 Kathāsaritsāgara, 20, 21 Kashmir, 55;—temple 55 Kāśī, 26 Kaulajnānanirnaya, 24n Kaulas, 12, 13, 28 Kula-school, 27 Kaundinya, 16 Kaurusha, 8, 102, 19;—line, 10 Kāyāvarohaņa, 7 Kedārarāsi, 3, 19n Keith, 41n Keśari, 33n, 54 Keśava-kāśmīrī, 10, 12 Khajuraho, 54, 54n, 552 Kielhorn, 33, 49n Kirādu, 54 Kiranāvali, 39 Kirttīsiva, 37, 49, 50 Knowledge, 14, 14n, 16* Kokalla II, 37, 50 Kolāvatī, 55 Kollamatha, 38, 39 Krishna Golakimatha, 32 Krishna-Samkara, 52 Krishna Sastri, 4, 54n Kriyā, 432, 44 Kula, 11;-&, 11 Kulāchārya Śri Dharanīpāda, 26 Kula-cult, 11 Kulastambha, 1n Kula School, 11, 272 Kulottunga, I, 37 Kulottunga III, 37

Kumāra, 442 Kumārasiva, 39 Kumārapāla, 23 Kuntala, 35 Kusika I, 8, 9, 2, 9n3. 10, 56, Kusika II 9n Kusika lineage, 9 L. Suali, 242 Lakshādhyāya Santāna, 39 Lakshmanarāja, 35, 46, 53 Lakshmana temple, 54n Lakshmanasena, 52 Lakshmī, 52 Lakshmīdhara, 13 Lakshmikarna 1n, 36, 36n, 49, 50 Lakshmī Nārāyaņa, 52, 55 Lakshmī- Sambhārāsanā, 55n Lākula, 8, 11;-8, 112 Lākulāgama Samaya, 11 Lakulīśa, 6, 7, 84, 94, 9n5, 103, 11, 12, 13, 182. 28, 29, 56, 57; —Pāśupata, 3, 8;-P. Doctrine, 29-Pāsupata School, 7, 8, 13, 56-Pāsupata Sect. 26;—Panchadeva, 56; Lalita Sundardeva, 52n Lalita vistara, 20 Lambakarna, 344 Lāṭa lineage, 19n Lokāyata, 4n Madanapāla, 1n Madanavarmā, 1n Mādhumateya, 30, 35, 36; -monastery, 35 Madhyadeśa, 48 Madhyapradesa, 34 Mahābhārata, 4, 7, 34 —Sabhāparva, 34n - Sāntiparva, 4n Mahābhairava, 232, Mahābhavagupta II, 1nº Mahādeva, 17 Mahākāleśvara, 2 Mahāranka Mahārāja Samudrasena, 52n Maharanka Kirttivarman, 52n Mahāsivagupta yayāti, In Mahāvrata, 4, 19, 20, 21,5 Mahavratadhara, 23, 4n, 4n2, 202, Mahāvratika, 21 ;-s, 20°, 21

Maheśvara Siva, 40 Mahīpāla Pratihara, 30n Mahua, 32 Maitrī, 15 Maitrī upanishada, 19, 19n Maitreya, 8, 11, 55 Majumdar R. C; 46 Mala, 43 Mālavā, 2, 33, 34³, 37, 57 Malayasīmha, 26², 27, 52-3 Malatī-Mādhava, 19 Malkapuram, 50 Manibhadra, 41n Māṇavaka, 53n Mandapa, 54 Māngalya Sāstra 5 Manjughosa, 26 Mantras, 16 Manu, 9n Matha, 31, 32;-s, 44, 44n Mathanadeva, 31 Matsyendranātha, 24, 28 Mattamayūra, 30, 324, 33, 342;-s. 34 ;—line, 35 ;—lineage, 32 ; -Matha, 30;-region, 1 Mattavilāsa, 21 Mirashi, 32, 33, 33n³, 39n, 47, 51 Miśra, 22;—Pāśupata School, 51;—School, 41 Mugdhatunga, 46 Mūlarāja Solaki, 39 Mūla Sūtra, 12 Mysore, 38, 50 Mystic practices, 15 Nādašiva, 37², 49, 50 Nāgavardhana, 20 Naimittika-Kriyānusādhana, 39 Naiyayikas, 40 Nalachampū, 202, 21 Narasimha, 33n, 36, 37, 49, 50 Narasimhadeva, 1ni 36n Naravāhana, 9, 15 Nātha Sampradāya, 22n, —Sect, 26;—yogi, 26n Nāṭyeśvara, 454 Naya-Soma 25, 57,—School, 24 Na-ya-Su-mo-(Nayasoma), 25 Nayasūtra, 12 Nepal, 25

Netrabhañja, 1n Nīlakantha temple, 54n Nimitta, 14 Niruddhadeva, 55n Nirvāna, 42 Nisvasatattva Samhita, 122 Nivartaka activities, 163, Niyama, 15 Non—dualist School, 30 Notices of Samskrita manuscripts and Seclect palm leaf in Durbar Library, 34n Nūtana monastery, 13 Nyāya, 132, 25, 57—; -bhasya, 14;-Bhūshana, 14, —Pāsupata philosphy, 13, 15; —School, 13, 14², 24, 25; system, 24 Omkārasiva, 31 Orissa Kings, 1 Osia, 55 Pañcha Brahma, 18 Panchdeva, 55, 56 Pańchadevopāsanā, 2, 51, 56 Pańchādhyāyī, 7, 12 Pańchakriya, 45 Pañchārtha, 12², 14;—Vidyā, 12 Pānchārthī Bhashya, 9n, 15n, 17n Pānchārthika, 12, 14, 97 18n, 28;s. 12², 57;—Comm. 7;—La-14;—Philosokula āmnāya, 14 ;—Sect, 11, 14 ; phy, Visvarūpa, 13 Panchaśrota, 8n Pañchasrotrorupa, 6, 8 Panchayatana, 54; 55, 56 Pandita Gandadhvaja, 13 Pāṇdimandaladhipati alias Lakshādhyāyī Santāna, 32, 32n Paramabrahmanya, 52. Paramamāheśwara, 1, 52;—Mahābrahmanya, 52 Paramamāhesvareti brahmanya, Paramāra, 2;-s, 2 Parmarddi, 1n Pārameśvara Siddhānta, 22 Pārvati, 25, 52, 55n Pāśa, 42 Paśu, 15n, 43, 152

Pāśupata, 3³, 4³, 6, 7, 14², 15n, 22n², 56—s, 13, 14³, 16, 17, 18, 19, 24, 28², 57;—ascetics, 19n, 27; -doctrine, 7, 22; fold, 28;-15-Pentad, 9n, 18, 26 ;-Literature, 15 ;—religion, 7; -school, 72, 82, 15, 22, 39, 57; -seat, 6n-Sūtras, 7, 12, 14, 15n, 16, 16n, 17, 18;teacher, 6n, 142, 19;-Vrata, 15, 15n Pasupati, 6, 6n, 7, 172, 42 Pātalīputra, 9n Pātañjala Literature, 15 Patañjali, 9n, 56 Pati, 142 Paurusheya, 15 Pavagarh, 54 Pavana Siva, 30, 35, 54n Pentad, 513 Pingalāmāta, 55 Pinākā, 53 Prabandhachintāmani, 2, 2n Prabhāsa, 13n, 242, 57 Prabhava, 47 Prabhava Sambhu, 36, 46n Prabhavasīva, 31, 352, 36n3 45, 463, 47, 50 Prabodhachandrodaya, 3n, 19-20, 22, 231, 252 Prabodhaśiva, 282, 312, 36n, 382, 42n, 44, 56 Pradyumneśvara motif, 52;-in Sena Period, 52n Pradyumnesvara temple, 51 Pramatha, 12 Pranāma, 19; -gotra, 132, 19n Prānāyāma, 15 Prāśāntaśiva, 43 Prasasti, 47, 47n; - Pada, 41n; —Padabhāshya, 39 Pratihāra, 30 Pratishthādarpana, 39 Prāyaschitta Samuchchaya, 342, 39 Prayatna, 14n Buddhist texts Pre-Dinnaga Logic from Buddhist Sources, Prithvirāja Vijaya,, 36, 36n, 48 Pulakeśi II, 20

Punjab, 2, 31, 343, 35, 57 Puragali Perumala, 32 Purāņas, 22, 72, 8, 10, 13n, 19, 23, 24, 29, 34 Bhagavata, 21n Kūrma, 23n, 29 Linga, 23n, 29, 29n Mārk, 54n Siva-(Vāyaviyasamhitā), 3, 3n, 4n. 5, 5n, 12, 12n, 13n², 20¹, 24n Skanda, 29 Varāha, 22 Vāyu, 7n, 29 Vishnudharmottara, 6, 18 Purandara, 30, 322 Parta, 165 Purushasiva, 46, 482, 49, 50 Pūrva, 122; - Kāranāgama, 6n; -Kaulas, 13 Quadrumvarate, 542 Raghūttama, 23 Rājaguru, 37, 39, 463, 47n, 48, 49, 49—s, 2, 28, 35², 37³, 46⁴, 49, 50 Rāja Sekhara, 9n, 15n, 39 21-Sūri, 10 Rajaputana, 27, 31, 57 Rājarāja I, 37, 38 Rājendra Chola, 38, 39 Rājendravarmman, Rāma, 26, 278 Rāmānuja, 3, 10, 20, 20n, 22n Ranabhanja, 1n Ranastambha, 1n Rānaka Dharekha, 37 Rāṇapallīka, 27 Ranipatra, 342, 35 Ranod, 32; -- monastery, 39 Rao, T.A.G. 6n, 16, 22 Rāshtrakūta, 30 Rāśi, 198; -- ending names, 19n Rāśikara, 7, 9n2, 15n, 17 Ratnaprabhā, 14 Ratnatraya, 5, 5n Rattarāja, 35 Religious Practices, 14, 15 Rohtaka, 342 Rudra, 17 Rudradeva, 3, 22, 30, 32, 35, 38,

38n, 40, 46, 50n Rudra Śambhu, 303 313 Rudrasiva, 498, 50 Rūpamandana, 53n Rūpasiva, 31 Siva, 47n Sābara Tantra, 223 Sabda, 412, 42 Sacrifices, 12 Sadā Siva, 6, 54n; -mudrā, 54 Sadbhāva, 47 Sadbhāva Sambhu, 309, 31, 35, 363, 36n, 463, 47, 48, 50 Sadhanva, 33n4 Sadyojāta, 18 Sāhasanka, 45 Sāhasika, 373, 483, 492 Saiddhāntika, 42;—8, 41, 42 Saiva, 33, 4, 22n, 57—ascetics, 1, 2, 22n, 44—cult, 40; deities, 45 ;—devotional sects, 57; devotional schools, 57 ;-doctrine, 44, 57; -- agamas, 22; -images, 44, incarnations, 8; -mantras, 44;-movements, 57; -mythology, 41-Panchayatana, 57;—Pantheon, 6°, 41; -Pentad, 51; -rajagurus, 2; -religion, 7; -school, 4n, 10, 24, 29, 30, 42;—sects, 26n; -Siddhanta, 2, 3, 5, 6, 41, 42, 45; → Siddhanta asceties, 56; -Siddhanta doctrine, 28, 29; -Siddhanta literature 18n; -Siddhanta Philosophy, 34; -Siddhanta school, 2, 6, 14, 28, 29, 38, 41, 43, 44, teachers, 18; -works, 35;-Yoga, 43 Saivas, 13, 14, 23n, 38, 40, 41, 51 Saivabhūshana grantha 38n Saivism, 2², 5, 8, 10, 25, 37², kāshmīra, 5, 5n Saka, 43 Sakti, 5, 142, 51, 54, 55, 562; -s, 14n;—ism, 25;—Siva, 37, 493, 50 Saletore, B. A., 46² Samādhi, 15 Samayas, 4

Sambuddha Siddha, 26, 26n Samkarāchārya, 56 Samkaragana, 36, 36n Samkaradigvijaya, 4 Sāmsārikas, 11; - kula, 27 Sanatkumāra, 15 Sāmkhāyana Brāhmanas, 17 Santāna, 31 Santa Siva, 31, 37, 37, 49, 50 Sāradātilaka 5 Sārīrakbhāshya, 3 Sārngadeva, 9, 29 Sarva, 17 Sarvadaršana Samgraha, 7, 12, 18n Sarva Siva, 37, 382, 47 Sarvavarmman, 23 Satischandra Vidyabhushana 24 Saundarya lahari, 13, 13n Sāyujya, 17n Seng-ho-pulo, 34 Shadanana, 13n, 45 Shaddarsana Samucachaya, 10, 13, 13n² 20, 41n Siddhas, 264, 27, 44 Siddha literature 27, 272 Siddhamata, 26n2 Siddha school, 963. 26n, 272 28 Siddha Siddhanta Samgraha, 26 Siddha Siddhanta Paddhati, 26n Siddhanta; —Panchadeva, 56; school, 42, 56 Siddhānta sārāvalī, 38 Sīddhanta Vaiseshika, 408—s, 41 Siddhārthayogi, 26, 27° Siddhayogeśvara school, 28 Siddhi, 6 Sikhā Siva, 47 Simhapura, 342 Simha Varmman, 33n3 Sircar, D. C., 46² 47n² 48 Siva, 1, 2, 7², 8, 13, 13n³, 14³ 15³, 16, 175, 20, 213, 222, 23, 14, 25, 272, 28, 294, 30, 342, 423, 43, 44, 45³, 48³, 49², 51⁶, 52, 53⁷, 53_n, 54³, 55², 55_n³, 56²; -darsana, 18n ;-drishti, 55 ; -Panchadeva, 56; -Panchayatana, 54 ;-Sakti, 27;-Sasana, 32, 4, 7, 8, 19, 21, 22, 224, 22,—s. school, 8;—

8n4, 10, 18n, 22n2, 27, 27n, Siddhanta, 31 28n, 29, 29n, 302; -- comm. 5n Siyaka, 34 Tantrasāra, 6 Si-yu-ki, 34n Tantric, 2;--literature, 25, 27; Smārta, 55, 56;—s, 51, 56, -- samhitā, 12; -- texts, 12n; -cult, 2, 51; -groups, 56, --works, 19, 30² -treatises, 51 Taporāśi 10, 19n Smrtimuktāphala, 51n Tārkikas, 412 Solanki chief, 2 Soma, 13, 243 252, 57,—creed, Tārkika Vaīšeshikas, 402 Tatpurusha, 18 25 ;-cult 4n Tatvasāra, 6n Somadeva Suri, 42 Telgu region 31 Somanātha, 24 Soma Sambhu, 35, 36, 382 38n2, Terahi, 32 Tirumalainādu, 32n 40, 47, 47n³ Tīrthakas, 15n -paddhati, 402, 40n Tīrtheśa, 9n; --- s, 10 Somaśarmā, 13n, 245 Trailokya Varmmadeva, 1n, 36, Soma Sīddhānta, 19, 23, 256, 57 Soma varmman, 53, 55 Trailokyamalla, 49. 50n Somesvara monastery, 13 Trailokyamalladeva, 36n, 46, 49 Sopāriya line, 31 Trayipurusha, 54n South, 37 Trīad, 30 South Indian Gods And Goddesses, Trik, 6, 30 Trilochanasīvāchārya, 38 Srībhāshya, 3, 20 Trinity, 51, 54* Śrīdhara, 17n Triširā Bhairava, 27 Srigona, 38n Srīkantha, 4², 5⁶, 5n⁵, 6⁵, 6n, 7⁵, 8⁴, 18², 22⁶, 31, Tryambaka, 30 Tucci, 22, 25n Udayāditya Varmman, 17n, 18 Srīkanthanātha, 6 Udayana, 13n, 39 Śrikantha Pańchamukha, 6, 18 Udita, 9n3, Srīmitra, 26 Udyotakara, 14 Śrīnātha, 222, 30 Ugra, 17 Srīnārāyaņa, 54 Ujjain, 2, 7 Srīngāraņa, 16 Ulūka, 24 Srīšāna, 38n Umā, 4, 45³ Studies in the Tantras, 5, 12n, 16n Umā Maheśvara, 453, 52 Sulkis, 33n Umāsahita Chandraśekhara, 25 Suprabhedāgama, 3n Upahāras, 15 Supūjitarāsi, 13, 19n Uttama Sikhara, 33n addenda Sūrya, 546, 54n, 552. 56 Uttara, 12 Sūtasamhitā, 23n Uttara Kaulas, 132 Svayambhu Tantra, 3n Uttara Sütra, 123 Swachchhanda, 8;--Tantra Uttara Tantra, 12* 16, 16n Vāchaspati Miśra, 3 Syncretic image, 52 Vaidyadeva, 1 Tamil, 2;—area, 31, 32, 57 Vaimala 4n Tantra, 6n, 12;—s. 23 Vairochana, 39 Tantrādhikāranirnaya, 4n, 23, Vaiseshika, 25;-8, 132, 142, 402 23n, 25n 42, 57; -author, 14; -doctrine, Tantrāloka, 4n, 51. 5n2, 72, 7n,

13n;-philosophers, 40; philosophy, 422;-school, 24, 40, 42; system, 24, 39, 40;-work, 39 Vaishnavas, 51 Vaishnavism etc., 7n, 9n, 10, 12n Valkalesvaramatha, 31 Vallālasena, 1 Vālmīki-rāśi, 10, 19n Vāma, 42 Vāmana, 3 Vāmadeva, 22, 18, 36, 37, 47n2, 485 Vāmašambhu, 2, 35, 36, 372, 40, 47, 49, 50 Vāmasiva, 482 Vappulaka, 54 Varāhmihira, 15n Vārāņasī, 383, 39, 57 Varddhamāna, 39 Varmanas, 34 Varmman dynesty, 2, 342; —line, 34 Varna, 2 Vāstušiva, 37, 48, 493, 50 Vatsa, 24 Vedas, 152, 53 Vedic, 22, 56;—institution, 2; saiva school, 2 Vidagdha, 52n Vidyābhañja, ln Vidyeśvara, 6, 182 Vijayasena 1, 52 Vijayasimha, 1n, 36 Vijayasimhadeva, 36n Vikramāditya, 482 Vimalasambhu, 49 Vimalasiva, 31, 373, 38, 462, 48, 49⁵, 50², 50n Vināyaka, 45, 56

Vināyakapāla Pratihāra, 31 Viramitrodaya, 23, 23n Vīra Pandya, 20 Vīra Simha, 52 Vishnu, 512, 526, 534, 545, 553, 55n, 56;—Panchāyatana, 55 Viśvarūpasena, 54 Viśveśvara, 3, 25, 50; —golakī matha, 32;-rāśi, 25 Viśveśvara Sambhu, 303, 32, 37 Viśveśvaraśiva, 31, 38, 44, 49 Vivekarāsi, 13, 19n Vows (Vratas), 15 Vrata, 21, 22 Vyomarāsi, 19n Vyomasiva, 13n, 14, 28, 392, 39n, 41, 41n, 42, 45, Vyomavatī, 39;—țikā, 39 Warangala, 32 Western India, 1 Worship, 45, Yāmunāchārya, 3, 20, 22n Yantras, 44 Yasah-karna, 1n, 36, 36, 37, 462, 48², 49², 50² Yasastilaka, 20, 40, 41n Yasatilaka and Indian Culture, 20n, 28n, 40n², 41n Yatna, 14 Yoga, 14, 15, 43 Yogic practices, 15, 43 Yogis, 43 Yuvarāja II, 6 Yuvarājadeva, 35, 36n², 468 Yuvarājadeva I, 35, 463, 47 Yuvarājadeva II, 372, 46, $49^3, 50$ Yuvarājadeva Keyūravarsha, 46

ADDITIONS & CORRECTIONS

P.	L.	Incorrect	Correct
2	8	Maharāājdhirāja	Mahārājādhi—
2	fn 2	स्वंव-	स्ववं—
3	fn 2		add after p. '2.'
14	23	icchhā	ichchhā
16 la	st 1. in	कर्मकृतंफलमा कांक्षं ग्रु-	कर्मकृतफलमाकांक्षन्-शुभैकस्थो
th	e note	भैकस्थो अवप्रह	ऽशुभोष्झित:
19	19	Prabandha-	Prabodha—
	fn 6	Maitrāyaņi—	Maitri—
20	4	hetrodox	heterodox
23	4	Prabandha-	Probodha—
	17	Prabandha-	Prabodha —
	fn 8	Some	Soma
24 2	& fn 2	Chinise	Chinese
25	6	Prabandha-	Prabodha —
26	fn 1		add at the end. "p. 135-136."
29	fn 2		add at the end. "Reva Ch. 38vv 2-3.
	fn 3		add at the end. "ch. 32."
	fn 5		add at the end. "Linga, ch. 7 v.33".
30	22	Prathiāra	Pratibara
31	15	Ganganaśiva	Gaganasiva
33			add in fn 1. 'Dr. D. C. Sircar

add in fn 1. 'Dr. D. C. Sircar seems to be right in identifying "uttamaśikhara with a hill bordering Bijolia in the Bhilwara District of the Udaipur Division of Rajasthan, since a poem entitled Uttamaśikhara-purāṇa (of the nature of a Sthala-mahātmya) by a Jaina poet named Siddhasūri is engraved on its surface."

Add in fn 2. 'The genealogy has been correctly stated by Prof. Mirashi in CII. IV.'

33	fn 2	generalogy	genealogy
34	6	Huen-	Hiuen —
35	3	Karakareni	Karakaronī
36	fn 2	identi ofty	identify
37	111	rajapuru	rājaguru
37	fn 1	Appendix A	Appendix
38	fn		add at the end. "pp. 147ff."
47	fn 3	Somaaśmbhu	Somaśambhu
49	26	SS	is
50	5	Ramerks	Remarks
53	fn 6
54	fn 10	Nilankarantha	Nīlakantha
56	fn 2	conography	Iconography

